2. Discussion on Political Change and Education in Indonesia

In February, 1999, SCIA met with two Indonesian educators who were visiting SFU with the support of the Eastern Indonesia Universities Development Project. The guests were Dr. M.T. Zen (Professor of Applied Geophysics, Bandung Institute of Technology) and Dr. Muchtor Buchori (Professor of Education, Muhammadiyah-Hamka University and Co-chair of the Indonesian Democratic Party). The purpose of the meeting was to provide SCIA members an opportunity to learn more about the rapidly evolving situation in Indonesia.

Dr. Zen noted the importance of liberal education, and exposure of Indonesian faculty and students to North American and European values and ideas. He sees this as an important means of introducing new influences that contribute to bringing about change in his country, particularly since universities have provided the impetus for much of the change that has occurred in Indonesia. SCIA's Indonesian guests also see contact between Indonesian and foreign academics as very important in promoting economic and social development.

At its November 30, 1999, meeting SCIA agreed to have a general discussion of Indonesia early in the new year. This decision was taken because of the rapidly evolving situation in that country, the opportunities that SFU will have to engage in new project activities in that county, and because of the concerns within the SFU community about our involvement there. The objective is to identify concerns and/or conditions that will have to be considered before SFU becomes involved in any new project activities in Indonesia. It was also agreed that several guests, representing various perspectives, be invited to participate in the discussion.

3. Proposal to Establish a Centre for Policy Research at the International University of Business, Agriculture and Technology – IUBAT (Dhaka, Bangladesh)

The Faculty of Business Administration sought SCIA approval for them to support IUBAT in its effort to establish a centre for policy research in Bangladesh. While SCIA supported the proposal, its support was made conditional on securing the agreement of SFU's Vice-President, Finance and Administration that SFU can accept donations in Canada, on behalf of IUBAT, to support of the Centre and its work. The acceptability of this arrangement was subsequently confirmed, and a Memorandum of Understanding between SFU and IUBAT was signed during the course of the year.

4. Technical Writing Program in India

The Writing and Publishing Program (Ann Cowan and Bob Allin) briefed SCIA on a workshop that they delivered in India in April 1999, and the interest of prospective partners in India (Anna University and a firm known as SAI) in working with SFU to deliver SFU's Certificate program in India. SCIA members indicated that an arrangement for delivering SFU's Certificate program in India had significant implications regarding internal approval processes, quality control requirements and budgeting. SCIA concluded that if SFU's Certificate program is to be offered in India, Continuing Studies will need to return to SCIA (and other relevant University committees) with a detailed business plan that deals with these various issues.

5. Proposed Project with the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara

SCIA was informed of an invitation extended to SFU and BCIT to submit a proposal to the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara (UAG) to support them in developing an adult education program to upgrade the skills of employees and potential employees for various industries in the Guadalajara area. With interest in the project expressed by Applied Sciences, the Centre for Distance Education, Continuing Studies, Education, and the Telelearning Research NCE, SCIA endorsed SFU's pursuit of this project opportunity.

A proposal was submitted in March, 1999. By year-end, a decision had not yet been taken by UAG on our proposal.

6. Signing of Memoranda of Understanding (MOU) vs. Letters of Intent (LOI)

Two proposed MOUs were presented for SCIA's consideration: one with the Colombo Plan Staff College in Manila; and the other with the Regional Language Centre in Singapore. At issue was whether SFU should sign MOUs when specific activities or areas of cooperation have not yet been identified – as was the case with each of these organizations. SCIA decided that SFU's normal practice should prevail, i.e. MOUs should be signed only after specific activities have been identified and agreed to in principle. SCIA indicated that LOIs or other appropriate documents should be signed when SFU and prospective partner institutions are simply agreeing to "explore" possible areas of cooperation.

7. Strategy for Internationalization at SFU

At its May, 1999 meeting, SCIA considered for the first time a working document titled "Internationalization for the New Millennium". The paper was introduced as the University's effort to develop an explicit strategy to guide the planning and pursuit of internationalization activities at SFU. SCIA discussed various aspects of the paper and encouraged broader consultation with the university community in shaping this document. It was also suggested that the paper ultimately be taken to Senate for information. The paper was considered at three subsequent SCIA meetings, changes were recommended the Committee and made. At its meeting of November 30, 1999, SCIA endorsed the draft document, and recommended that it be presented to Senate for information and discussion.

SCIA also recommended that in order to promote the concept of internationalization at SFU, this paper be sent to the President and VP, Academic search committees for use in the selection process of candidates for these positions.

8. Faculty of Education's Planned International Activities

The Faculty of Education made an omnibus presentation to SCIA outlining a wide range of international activities that it is investigating. It was emphasized that many of these planned activities would not come to fruition while new opportunities would present themselves, sometimes unexpectedly.

Specific issues raised with SCIA included:

- the possibility that a long-term program of cooperation between the Faculty and educators from Greenland would be identified and that SCIA approval of a formal MOU would be sought.
- the Faculty's recent work with the University of the West Indies (Trinidad & Tobago campus) and their request for SCIA to support the signature of an MOU between SFU and UWI to cover future collaboration
- the Faculty's desire to sign an MOU with the Institut Aminuddin Baki (IAB) in Malaysia to govern teacher/educator training programs for which SFU expects to be contracted by Malaysia.

SCIA recommended that MOUs be signed with both UWI and the IAB.

9. Selection of a Chair for the International Student Exchange Committee (ISEC)

SCIA discussed the selection of a new Chair for the ISEC, a sub-committee of SCIA. The main issue revolved around the merit or need to select the Chair of this Committee from within SCIA. This issue arose because of the demands on the time of SCIA members and the initial reluctance of members to take on additional committee responsibilities. SCIA reviewed the history of why and how ISEC was established, and the relationship between the work of the two committees. SCIA agreed that the ISEC chair should continue to be a member of SCIA. Paul McFetridge agreed to let his name stand for nomination, and was unanimously endorsed by SCIA as the new Chair of ISEC.

10. SFU Proposals for the 1999 University Partnerships in Cooperation and Development Competition (Tier 2)

SCIA considered three concept papers related to possible proposals to this year's competition for project funding provided by the Canadian International Development Agency. Since only two proposals can be submitted by each Canadian university that will be the lead Canadian partner, SCIA recommended that the two proposals to go forward be one to develop a professional community development program in Mexico, and one to provide training to community development workers (women) in Mexico. The third concept paper related to distance education in Botswana was not selected since it was less well developed and the deadline for submissions was near.

SCIA noted for future reference that ideally two projects going forward in the same competition should more differentiated in terms of geographic location and discipline than was the case this year.

11.    Secondary School Teacher Education Project (Malawi)

SCIA recommended support for SFU's participation in this competitive proposal for a CIDA-funded project. SFU will be associated with Brandon University and Hickling Corporation in this bid. SFU's main contribution will be through the Centre for Distance Education and directed toward building Malawi's capacity to deliver teacher-upgrading programs using distance education techniques.

12.    Written Communications Skill Services:  Proposal to the UN High Commissioner for Refugees

Continuing Studies proposed bidding on a contract to create a distance education program to improve the writing skills for senior staff of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees. SFU would draw on its existing program content. SCIA members raised questions and concerns including:
- whether course content would have to be tailored by culture, language and region of delivery
- the need to have differential pricing for courses, by language, to reflect the different cost for course development of the French, English and Spanish programs.

SCIA recommended that the proposal be approved, subject to a more transparent presentation of the budget, and careful review by the Vice-President, Academic.

13.    Approval of a Career Counseling Course in Shanghai and Vancouver

SCIA reviewed for information documentation related to this project, which was approved in August 1999, by the VP Academic. The Chair noted that he approved this project without first consulting SCIA because a commitment by SFU was required quickly, at a time when a number of SCIA members were not available, and before SCIA was scheduled to meet. The Chair offered in future to circulate such material to SCIA electronically (or in hard copy) where a decision is required very quickly.

14.    Proposal for a Field School in Hellenic Studies

SCIA identified several concerns with the proposed field school including the selection criteria for students, the possible reliance on the Antipas Foundation for financial support, the lack of an express minimum GPA requirement, and the absence of an identified faculty member to lead the school.

SCIA deferred its decision until the Faculty of Arts was able to clarify and confirm that:
- SFU students will be given priority
- academic criteria will prevail in selecting participants
- the field school will not be financially dependent on the Antipas Foundation
- if external funding is forthcoming, it will result in lowering the cost to participating students.

Subsequent clarifications from the Associate Dean of Arts satisfied SCIA's concerns, and the Committee recommended that the field school proceed.

15. Proposal to Participate in a North American Student Mobility Initiative "Globalization and Governance in North America: Developing an Integrated Curriculum"

The Chair of ISEC spoke to this item noting that his committee had been concerned with: the late submission of the proposal (very close to the final submission date, to Human Resources Development Canada, for funding); the lack of information on which to base an informed decision; and the financial contribution that would be required of SFU. For these reasons, the proposal was withdrawn from consideration, but may be resubmitted in next year's competition.

The Chair of ISEC thought that this type of proposal goes beyond student mobility, and as such, should come to SCIA for consideration. SCIA agreed.

16. Update on Faculty of Education Initiatives

In November 1999, SCIA considered an update presented by the Faculty of Education. SCIA asked its Secretary to follow up with the Faculty on two issues of concern. One, to request clarification on the reference to a "field school" in Mexico which had not been approved by SCIA; and two, to make the Faculty aware of concerns regarding academic freedom in China, and that any MOU with Harbin University should come to SCIA for review.

17. Leadership for the Americas Program

SCIA was briefed on a proposed relationship with Texas Christian University and seven universities in Latin America that would link four students from each university in an ongoing, electronic exchange of views and in an annual conference featuring speakers of international stature. The program is funded by American Airlines. SFU's obligation is to host one of the annual conferences. The Faculty of Arts has confirmed its commitment to manage SFU's participation.

SCIA discussed the process and criteria for selecting the students who will participate. The Chair of ISEC agreed to discuss the selection criteria with the Faculty of Arts and to have ISEC oversee the selection of SFU students.
