MEMORANDUM

| Members of Senate                                    | From Academic Planning Committee |
|--|----------------------------------|
| Subject Reorganization of the Facultof Education | y Date July 18, 1972.            |

 At the Senate meeting of April 5th, 1971 the following four motions contained in Senate paper S.71-51 were referred to the Academic Planning Committee:

Motion I: That the Educational Foundations Centre be organized into one administrative unit; that this unit be recognized for University purposes as a Department; and that there be no sub-departments within the Educational Foundations Centre.

Motion II: That the courses for the Educational Foundations Centre, as detailed in paper S.71-51b be approved.

Motion III: That in view of the extensive nature of the proposed changes for the Educational Foundations Centre and the advanced knowledge of Senate of the intent of the Faculty of Education to bring forward major changes that Senate suspend the rules pertaining to the two semester time delay prior to the offering of courses approved by Senate - to permit the offering of the Educational Foundations Centre courses approved by Senate (S.71-51b) on or after September 1st, 1971.

Motion IV: That a modification of Senate paper S.401 be approved to the effect that the criteria for Education Minors as part of the requirements for the B.Ed. degree be as stated in S.71-51b.

S.72-88

Because Senate did not include a specific charge in its referral of the four motions contained in S.71-51b, the President on April 28th, 1971 provided to the Academic Planning Committee a more specific and detailed charge:

- 1. The Academic Planning Committee is charged to bring forward to me, for referral to Senate, a recommendation as to the role of Fine Arts courses within the University.
- 2. The Academic Planning Committee is charged to bring forward to me, for referral to Senate, a recommendation as to the administrative placement of the Kinesiology Program/Physical Development Studies within the University.
- 3. The Academic Planning Committee is charged to address itself to the quantitative and qualitative needs of the Province in the area of teacher's education.
- 4. The Academic Planning Committee is charged to bring forward to me, for referral to Senate, a recommendation as to the role, structure and organization within the University of the Educational Foundations Centre of the Faculty of Education.

2. At a special meeting of Senate, held on October 25, 1971 to consider the report of the Academic Planning Committee on the reorganization of the Faculty of Education, a series of twenty-eight motions were considered and motions passed to implement them. Those which directly concerned the reconstituted Faculty of Education were as follows:

> 22. That the Faculty of Education be newly constituted so as to comprise the faculty members currently in the Professional Development Centre and members currently in Social & Philosophical Foundations, as designated by the Academic Vice-President.

> > /...

23. That the Faculty of Education, as newly constituted be charged to submit (by January 31, 1971) a report to Senate through the Academic Planning Committee, covering the following points:

a) detailed recommendations for undergraduate and graduate program modification and development:

b) detailed recommendations regarding staffing patterns and priorities; and

c) steps to be taken relating to the organizational structure of the Faculty - specifically its Faculty Co-Ordinating Council, Graduate Studies Committee, and Undergraduate Studies Committee.

24. That the recommendations made regarding programs within the Faculty of Education satisfy the following constraints:

a) courses should bear the designation "Education";

b) responsibility for Education courses currently numbered 201 and 202 should be retained by the newly constituted Faculty of Education; and

c) additional work in the foundation areas of education should be integrated as far as is possible into the programs of the Faculty of Education without provision for majors in the foundational areas themselves at the undergraduate level." (Senate Paper S.71-120).

3. Since October, 1971, the Faculty of Education has, in response to Senate's charge, undertaken a complete review of its

3. (continued) programs and organization. This was carried out by three task forces, whose fields of competence corresponded to the three major program areas, undergraduate, graduate and professional. The Faculty has recommended that the division of their programs along these lines be continued; and their recommendations on course offerings and organization which follow reflect this feeling.

In general, the Faculty felt that its present orientation and programs should be continued. This decision was reached after an extensive review both of existing programs and of the available alternatives. In the professional area, the Faculty examined the possibility of moving in the direction of more conventional programs by undertaking more instruction in teaching This was rejected in favour of the present method on campus. practice of undertaking as much work as possible in the schools which would provide students with a practical and theoretical base for their later work. In this case, campus instruction would be designed to bolster school practice. The major alternative in subject areas was the establishment, within the Faculty of Education, of what would amount to a mini-university whose curriculum would include not only professional courses in education, but also subject-oriented courses in other disciplines geared directly to the curriculum in schools. Thus, the Faculty would be responsible for the instruction of its students in the content as well as the method of their teaching subjects. This possibility was rejected in favour of continued and intensified encouragement of education students taking their subject work in other university departments.

The Faculty considered that the programs now being presented to Senate for approval represent a base from which further proposals will come. These will be submitted to Senate in due course. It is obvious that the proposed graduate program is an extension of the existing one and this is in line with the expressed intention of the Faculty that graduate programs comprise a larger proportion of its work. It also hopes to emphasise in-service

3.(continued) 'earn-and-learn' programs, providing educational practitioners with an opportunity to integrate campus and work experiences and to give high priority to the development of a graduate program in counselling.

It is also proposed that far greater emphasis be given to programs and courses given jointly between the Faculty of Education and departments in the other two Faculties. Such efforts may take a number of forms. For example, mechanisms will be explored which will enable non-Education professors to take part in Education 402 curriculum and special interest seminars; which will facilitate joint appointments with departments in foundation- and curriculumrelated disciplines; and which will enable service courses in other departments to be offered. It is also hoped that every Arts and Science department will be persuaded to give an upper-division and/or graduate course designed to present the structure of its discipline and to acquaint specialists and non-specialists with recent develop-The Faculty of Education will also consider a service ments in it. course for graduate students preparing to teach in higher education.

In addition the Faculty has unanimously agreed that it should pay increased attention to curriculum development and evaluation and that a centre should be established for this purpose. It will propose that the Faculty be permitted to appoint an associate dean whose primary responsibilities will be in the area of research and development and who will, specifically, have charge of the centre already mentioned.

The Faculty also wishes to secure the appointment of a director in each of the three program areas mentioned above. These directors will be responsible for the administration of their program areas, for curriculum development and revision as chairman of a curriculum committee, and for promoting and co-operating in program evaluation. These proposals are, however, included merely for the information of Senate and require no action by it.

4. The attached graduate program has been considered and approved by the Senate Graduate Studies Committee; and the undergraduate program has been considered and approved by the Senate Committee on Undergraduate Studies. Following this, they were examined and approved by the Academic Planning Committee which now forwards them to Senate.

Senate action is required only on the programs themselves through the motions which follow.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES COMMITTEE

JUNE 29, 1972

A. Definitions of Majors and Minors in the B.Ed. Degree

Motion:

That majors and minors within the B.Ed. degree, including pre-requisites, be as approved by Senate on the recommendations of the Faculty of Education and the departments concerned.

Interim Procedures

Students may complete the degree under regulations in effect at the time they declare their major and/or minors, or under regulations in effect at the time of graduation.

Discussion:

Prior to May 1971 students in a B.Ed. Degree program completed requirements for majors under regulations set out by their major departments. At that time there was no provision for minors. Under procedures approved by Senate in September 1970 and in effect since May 1, 1971, majors and minors were to be specified within certain constraints by the Faculty of Education, with the advice of the departments concerned. Consultations have been held with representatives of departments throughout the university and with outside organizations in an attempt to determine and specify suitable majors and minors. During this time it became apparent:

(a) That it was difficult to obtain consistent advice from departments because of change in committee membership and changes in courses, prerequisites, and major requirements.

(b) That majors were being recommended which in most cases differed little from those which were currently specified by the departments.

(c) That some departments had serious reservations about the specification of majors for the B.Ed. degree which differed from those for students working toward a B.A.

The conclusion of the Faculty of Education is that there is little to be gained from the considerable effort that would be necessary to specify majors and minors across the university. The above motion would have little effect of reverting to the former procedure in which B.Ed. degree students complete the same majors as students working for degrees in Arts or Science.

B. Definition of Education Minors

Motion:

That there be two classes of education minors.

The Faculty of Education will provide coherent minor programs in special areas of education. Specific series of courses are defined by the Faculty. A student may, however, choose a coherent set of courses for a general minor, subject to approval by the Director of Undergraduate Programs.

In each case 14 - 18 semester hours of course work numbered 300 and above are required of which at least 8 semester hours must be from courses offered by the Faculty of Education.

Procedures:

Proposals for a series of minors in special areas of education will be developed in the Faculty of Education and brought forward through S.C.U.S. to Senate for approval. Students not enrolled in special minor programs will complete general minors.

Discussion:

At the present time students enrolled in the B.Ed. degree program complete minors under the conditions which approximate those set out above for general minors, that is, they select a combination of courses which they consider appropriate as a minor and have this combination of courses approved by the Faculty of Education. It has, however, been the intention for some time in the Faculty of Education to specify more precisely a limited number of minors in fields such as Physical Education and Early Childhood Education. It is anticipated that students enrolled in Special Minor will complete a specific sequence of courses and receive appropriate placements in schools during the Education 401/405 practicums.

C. Revision of Degree Requirements

Motion:

That a major or a minor in a field not commonly taught in British Columbia schools may only be taken in combination with a minor in a field that is commonly taught.

Procedures

Representatives of the Faculty of Education will consult with the Department of Education, the B.C.T.F. and with school district personnel before developing lists of potential major or minor program areas that are taught or widely taught in B.C. schools. This list will be approved by the Faculty of Education and made known to students.

Discussion:

The present B.Ed. degree program is primarily designed to prepare teachers for the school system. The requirement of a major or two minors in Arts or Science is an attempt to ensure reasonable substantive preparation in the fields of knowledge with which the students will be dealing in the schools. While we do not wish to inhibit changes that might evolve it seems reasonable to insist that at least part of the substantive preparation we require be in fields of study that are presently dealt with in the schools.

D. Revised Course Descriptions

Motion:

That the courses listed in pages 7 and 8 and described in the attached supporting documents be approved.

Interim Procedures:

As a result of the reorganization of the Faculty of Education courses offered will bear the designation "Education" rather than P.D.C., S.P.F. and so on. This gives the opportunity to develop a rational numbering system to suit the requirements of the new faculty. It is, therefore, proposed that the changes set out below become effective in the Fall Semester 1972.

Discussion:

1. Lower Division Courses

The proposed lower division courses are intended to develop concepts and analytical skills to increase understanding of educational processes, to enable intending teachers to better interpret their initial classroom experiences and to provide a foundation for more advanced study in the upper levels.

A limited number of lower division courses has been proposed. We recognize that students intending to teach may wish to have early association with the field of education and believe we should respond to that need. However, we prefer that students gain a broad substantive preparation before entering professionally oriented courses and programs. Courses in the lower division are designed to be of value to the general university community as well as to students working toward the B.Ed. degree.

2. Upper division Courses

Proposed and existing upper division courses fall into three broad categories:

( i) Core Courses of the Professional Development Program.

These include Education 401, 402, 404 and 405. Changes have been made in titles and calendar descriptions which reflect more clearly the nature of these courses.

(ii) Other Courses Previously Offered in the Professional Development Centre.

In the past these have been offered under umbrella labels. While we value the flexibility this approach has provided during the early years of the development or programs we recognize a number of problems.

(a) Until recently it has not been possible for students t take more than one section in a course even though sections frequently deal with entirely different content.

(b) Transcripts have not accurately reflected details of students' programs.

(c) There have been difficulties in maintaining control of minor programs in education.

(d) There have been difficulties in communicating details of course offerings to the larger university community.

We propose to offer as separate courses those sections which have been mounted consistently over an extended period (Education 421, 462, 463, 464, 465, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 484, 486, 487). In addition, one new course of this general type is proposed (Education 485).

(iii) Courses Bring the Insights of Related Disciplines to Bear on Educational Issues

(a) Former SPF courses - Education 492, 434, 435, 436, and 442 (Formerly SPF 435 (amended), 434, 435, 436, 432).

(b) Former BSF courses specifically related to educational practice and not included in Communication Studies proposals - Education 422 (Formerly BSF 423).

(c) Additional courses - Education 423, 441.

(iv) Additional Changes.

These represent courses which are not specifically associated with any of the previous groups referred to above. Education 489 (Experimental Courses) and Education 490 to 495 (Directed Study courses which replace Education 498 and 499).

3. Liaison with Other Faculties and Departments

(i) Essential courses in educationhave been described but may not necessarily be taught exclusively by Faculty of Education personnel. Possibilities for cooperative enterprises include:

(a) Courses offered for credit in either the Faculty of Education or a department in another faculty.

(b) Courses which are jointly staffed.

(c) Courses which are staffed by special arrangement by members of faculty in other departments.

(iii) Departments will be encouraged to develop, in cooperation with the Faculty of Education, courses designed to communicate to prospective teachers the nature of their respective disciplines and modes of inquiry.

(iv) Discussions will be held with departments and faculties with a view to developing majors which cross traditional disciplinary boundaries, e.g., majors in general science and the social sciences.

Course numbers may be modified after discussion with the Registrar. However, those indicated are arranged as follows:

- 200 level courses courses designed for the lower division both for the general university community and for intending teachers.
- 400 level courses advanced studies of educational problems and issues. It is intended these courses will be taken towards the end of students' degree programs.

Within these levels the following numbering scheme has been followed:

00 - 09 Core program offerings (400 level only)

10 - 19 Unused

20 - 29 Courses based on insights from Psychology

30 - 39 Courses based on insights from Philosophy

40 - 49 Courses based on insights from the Social Sciences

50 - 59 Unused

60 - 69 Goneral courses for teachers on particular topics which cross subject matter boundaries

70 - 85 Curriculum studies

86 - 89 Special topics and experimental courses

90 - 99 Directed studies

When will course first be offered?

3. JUSTIFICATION

A. What is the detailed description of the course including differentiation from lower level courses, from similar courses in the same department, and from courses in other departments in the University?

Fills major gap in present offerings. Education 201 and 202 were intended to utilize insights from Philosophy and the Social and Behavioral Sciences. However, a clearer focus is achieved by dealing with insights from the Social Sciences in 240 and from Psychology and Philosophy in Ed. 220 and 230 respectively. This course draws primarily from Anthropology & Sociology.

See description above.

A service course for the general university community which also provides a useful overview for pre PDP students.

Recommended lower division course.

E. What are the calendar changes necessary to reflect the addition of this course?

Addition of Ed.240-3.

F. What course, if any, is being dropped from the calendar if this course is approved?

None

G. What is the nature of student demand for this course?

Not assessed. However, past response to lower division Education courses suggests an enrolment of approximately 100 students/semester.

H. Other reasons for introducing the course.

A. Which faculty will be available to teach this course?

3. JUSTIFICATION

A. What is the detailed description of the course including differentiation from lower level courses, from similar courses in the same department, and from courses in other departments in the University?

We propose to offer five separate numbers for directed study courses in place of Education 499. Education 499 has been reasonably successful in the past but we have faced serious problems in determining an appropriate workload for students and in maintaining contact and interest of an extensive nature throughout the semester. We believe the possibility for five directed study courses can be used in some specially approved cases as a directed study semester (that is if a student takes on five courses in one semester). The, possibility of registering for varying amounts of credit should provide greater flexibility and the possibility of combining an extensive amount of work in directed study with other regular course offerings. It should also enable us to maintain, higher control over work done by students and to distribute the advising responsibility more readily over several members of faculty. C. How does this course fit the goals of the program?

APPENDIX B Approved by APC July 18, 1972 following approval of courses by SGSC

GRADUATE PROGRAMS IN THE FACULTY OF EDUCATION

MOTION 1

That eleven new courses be instituted:

| Education | 813-5 | Organizational Theory and Analysis in Education    |
|-----------|-------|--|
| Education | 814-5 | Research and Development Strategies in Education   |
| Education | 815-5 | The Economics and Financing of Education           |
| Education | 816-5 | Developing Educational Programs                    |
| Education | 817-5 | The Political and Social Environment of Public     |
|           |       | Education  |
| Education | 818-5 | Administrative Leadership of Educational Personnel |
| Education | 819-5 | Studies in Teacher-Student Interaction and         |
|           |       | Curriculum Development                             |
| Education | 820-5 | Educational Objectives and Teaching Strategies     |
| Education | 821-5 | Educational Theory and Classroom Applications      |
| Education | 822-5 | Evaluation of Educational Practice                 |
| Education | 823-5 | Recent Developments in Curriculum and Instruction  |
|           |       | in an Individual Teaching Specialty                |

Rationale:

Each of these has been taught as a specific offering under the general heading of a "problems" course. Each is a required or elective element in the Administrative Leadership Program and/or the Graduate Program in Educational Practice. To offer regularly such courses without submitting them for individual calendar listing has three drawbacks:

- 1. Courses are not subjected to the normal academic scruting and do not receive official sanction.
- 2. The calendar fails to convey the specific nature of course offerings available to the graduate student.
- 3. A student's transcript gives little indication of the nature of the program undertaken.

The programs within which these courses are taught are designed to provide practising educational personnel with a broad theoretical base for the analysis and development of practice. As such they draw heavily on the social sciences and provide supervision in the application of social science concepts to educational practice. Although the programs are professional in character they are not highly specialized or narrowly vocational, but are designed to increase the options open to the participant by extending both his conceptual and his technical skills.

In order to deal adequately with social science components in these programs the following practices are observed:

- 1. Courses are staffed by Faculty of Education professors with competence in the cognate discipline(s).
- 2. Consultation is sought with personnel in departments representing those disciplines.
- 3. Resource people from the disciplines are used systematically within the course, e.g.:
  - (a) At least three Simon Fraser University people from outside education contribute within Education 815-5 -The Economics and Financing of Education.
  - (b) One of North America's leading scholars in the politics of education is being brought in to serve the dual role of featured speaker at a Simon Fraser University-sponsored conference and resource person in Education 817-5 - The Political and Social Environment of Public Education.

MOTION 2

That course numbers and titles be provided for field work:

| Education | 811-5 | Field | Work | I  |
|-----------|-------|-------|------|----|
| Education | 812-5 | Field | Work | II |

Rationale:

Current programs provide for field work credit to a maximum of 10 semester hours but no provision has been made for the assignment of credit to particular course numbers.

MOTION 3

That two special project courses be instituted:

| Education | 881-5 | Special | Project | I  |
|-----------|-------|---------|---------|----|
| Education | 882-5 | Special | Project | II |

Rationale:

Extended essays have been redefined as special projects in order to accommodate a wider range of projects appropriate to educational goals.

The term extended essay is not sufficiently exact to describe the type of work being completed under this requirement. Extended essays that have been done to date or are being done include such diverse projects as action research, field studies, film production, experimental studies, as well as true extended essays. These projects have often been group as well as individual projects. Criteria have been developed for evaluating these projects and examination procedures similar to those used for theses have been used in determining each project's acceptability.

MOTION 4

That the first paragraph under Program Development on page 113 of the 1972-73 calendar be revised to read as follows:

"The requirements for the M.A. (Education) or M.Sc. ### (a) Outline of the Course

The graduate offerings of the Faculty of Education are oriented primarily to the continuing education needs of professional practitioners in education, e.g. teachers, school administrators, and less to those individuals seeking research careers in education.

For many candidates, an important component of their continuing education needs can be met through the provision of field work experiences. The nature and extent of the field work experience will vary according to the candidate's needs. For some candidates, the field work experience may take the form of field testing a curriculum model; for others it may take the form of a guided internship experience; and yet for others it may involve the implementation and evaluation in a field setting of a new educational service (e.g. computer assisted instruction).

(b) Competence of Faculty Members to Give the Course

In addition to their backgrounds as teachers and researchers in university settings, all the professorial faculty of the Faculty of Education have had experience as professional practitioners in public schools. In addition, their connection with the public schools is maintained through their involvement with the field experiences (i.e. Education 401, Education 405) of the undergraduate students of the faculty.

It seems reasonable to suggest, therefore, that each of the faculty members in the Faculty of Education is competent to supervise field work in his acknowledged area of specialization.

(c) Library Resources

Field Work I (and Field Work II) will not require library resources beyond those presently being supplied.

It will make extensive use, however, of the services of the Faculty of Education Learning Resources Centre and Audio-Visual Services.

(a) Outline of the Course

Field Work II will provide an additional or an expanded experience for candidates who have successfully completed Field Work I. That is, some candidates may undertake work in Field Work II that will not be closely related to the work that they did in Field Work I. For other candidates, however, Field Work II may be an expansion of the work they have done in Field Work I.

(a) Outline of the Course

The purpose of this course is to provide prospective and practicing educational administrators with opportunities to relate relevant conceptual and empirical material drawn from the field of organizational theory and analysis to the problems of administering educational organizations.

Attention to be given to the following topics as they relate to educational organizations: the nature of formal and informal organizations, basic models in organizational analysis, organizational goals, organizational control, maintenance and change, decision making, communication, and organizational effectiveness.

Considerable use is made of audio-visual, case and simulated materials in the study of administrative problems.

(b) Competence of Faculty Member to Give the Course

Dr. Robinson has extensive experience in British Columbia public schools as a teacher and a practicing educational administrator.

He holds a Ph.D. in Educational Administration from the University of Alberta and has taught at the graduate level and done research in this field since 1966.

(c) Library Resources

Library resources have proven to be adequate to meet the needs of this course in the past.
