SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY

EDUCATION 230-3

INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION (D1.00)

Fall Semester, 1993 (September 7 - December 6) Monday & Wednesday,

11:30 a.m. - 12:20 p.m. & tutorials

Location: AQ 3154

Instructor:

Dr. Cornel Hamm

Office: Telephone: MPX 8662 291-4146

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course open to all undergraduates, is intended to provide prospective teachers as well as others interested in education an opportunity to examine a variety of educational issues from a philosophical perspective. The central concern of the course is to elucidate the nature of education as a phenomenon distinguishable from such activities as training, schooling, and socialization. It should enable one to think more clearly and critically about a host of problems, issues, and concepts in education. There are no prerequisites for the course. A brief course outline follows:

A. The Nature of Philosophical Issues in Education

- 1. What are philosophical problems in education?
- 2. What role does philosophy have in solving educational problems?

B. The Language of Education

- 1. Meaning and definitions in education
- 2. Slogans and metaphors in education
- 3. Problems of vagueness, ambiguity, and emotive uses of language

C. The Nature of Education

- 1. The concept 'education'
- 2. The concepts 'teaching' and 'learning'.
- 3. Cognitive education and education of the emotions
- 4. The aims of education
- 5. Education, curriculum, and the nature of knowledge
- 6. The means-ends

D. Moral Dimensions of Education

- 1. Freedom and authority in education
- 2. Discipline and punishment in education
- 3. Conditioning and indoctrination
- 4. The justification of content in education
- 5. Values and moral education

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- 1. Tutorial participation
- 2. Mid-term examination on required readings.
- 3. One assignment, one 2-page paper, one longer paper

TEXT AND READINGS

C.M. Hamm. Philosophical Issues in Education: An Introduction. Falmer Press (1989). Selected essays and papers.