

COURSE OUTLINE

Education 492-4 - Advance Studies in Educational Media.

Ed Wong

NOTE: Full summer semester

Prereq: Educ. 401/402; Educ. 463 and/or instructor's permission.

Description:

Aimed at student-teachers and teachers, the course is a self-directed study in educational media. The student will present a project proposal in the area he or she wishes to study and develop materials. Upon acceptance of the proposal, the student will go through the various stages of researching, planning, production, and validation. The project should be related to educational practice. For example, the development of multi-media learning kits in a specific subject area would be appropriate.

Weekly individualized seminar meetings with instructor to be arranged at times mutually convenient. Group seminar meetings with guest speakers, workshop leaders, resource personnel, will be announced.
