PREREQUISITE: Educ 260 (or permission from the instructor)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this course students will use a variety of theoretical frameworks and practical considerations to understand and evaluate the pedagogical uses of multimedia in relation to curriculum design. Students will work collaboratively to design and produce a multimedia curriculum project for use within an educational setting.

EXPECTATIONS

Students are expected to attend all scheduled classes, to complete assigned readings and coursework prior to class, to actively participate in group work and in-class activities, and to seriously engage with the themes and issues related to the course, both in-class and online.

Regular access to a computer and the Internet is required to participate in this course. Online or out of class activities may replace regular class time throughout the semester.

ASSIGNMENTS

“Web logs” (Blog) Portfolios 40%
Educational Software Evaluation Paper 20%
Collaborative Curriculum Design Project: 40%

REQUIRED READINGS:

Selected readings will be provided to students at a cost.
