MEMORANDUM

To SENATE

From SENATE COMMITTEE ON UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

New Course Proposals:FPA.120-3;220-3;
Subject 221-3;320-3;324-3;326-3;424-5;and 425-5.

Date 20th July, 1976

Action taken by the Senate Committee on Undergraduate Studies at its meeting of July 13th, 1976 gives rise to the following motion:

MOTION: That Senate approve, and recommend approval to the Board of Governors, the course number changes and new courses proposed in paper S.76-95.

NOTE - Discussion took place on the statement contained in the rationale for FPA.220, 221, and 320, "the three courses proposed represent the foundation for the student who wishes to pursue contemporary dance as a performer, choreographer, or teacher." The Committee was assured that these courses, and particularly the dance minor, would not be narrowly vocationally oriented. The development of "an aesthetic understanding of the arts" is a major objective of each course and of the forthcoming minor program. Furthermore, in order to complete the minor, students will be expected to complete two of the "context" courses and one upper division theoretical course concerned with several of the Fine and Performing Arts.

A question was raised about the reduction of FPA.425 to three semester hours credit from the five carried by its earlier equivalent. It was noted that a five credit hour course taken in the inter-session could be considered as equivalent to a full load for that period for purposes of financial aid eligibility. The Committee was informed that students could undertake a separate directed study course in the same inter-session period by concentrating on it during the time in which FPA.425 was not in session and that instructors preferred to concentrate on the intensive studies in dance rather than requiring a related but separate paper as has been done in the past when the intensive residency was offered for credit under GS.400. It was agreed that the credit hours assigned to FPA.425 would be discussed once more with Professor Garland and that the response would be forwarded to Senate.

NOTE: Response from the Department indicates that 5 credit hours would be appropriate for FPA.425.

MEMORANDUM

Dr. J. Weinkem, Chairman
 Interdisciplinary Studies Undergraduate Curriculum Committee

Subject: Minor Programme - Dance
 Centre for the Arts

From: Evan Alderson, Director
 Centre for the Arts

Date: 30 Jun 76

Following the meeting of the I.D.S. Curriculum Committee yesterday, it appears desirable that I set out in greater detail how the dance courses approved at that meeting conform to the minor structure that has been approved in principle by Senate. Below I list the courses on dance that were specified on Page 8 of Senate paper 76-21, passed last February. In a separate column I indicate the new designations for these courses entailed by the present proposals:-

Level	Credit Hours	New Designation
100 - Introduction (Kinesiology 144)	3	FPA. 120
200 - Studio I (Kinesiology 244)	3	FPA. 220
200 - Studio II	3	FPA. 221
300 - History (Kinesiology 310)	3	FPA. 326
300 - Composition (kinesiology 344)	3	FPA. 324
300 - Studio III	3	FPA. 320
400 - Production	5	FPA. 424
400 - Intensive Residency	5	FPA. 425

As you see, the only substantive change from our earlier plans is the reduction of credit for the "Intensive Residency" or FPA. 425 from 5 hours to 3. This seemed appropriate given the 4-week duration of the course, even given the full-time involvement required. I repeat: only 2 of these 8 courses are new in the sense of requiring resources above those of past years; 4 of them are transfers from Kinesiology and 2 utilize the resources of the non-credit program.

The dance minor we will bring forward for approval shortly will require all of these courses but FPA. 425. Students will also be required to take two of our "context" courses and one upper division theoretical course concerned with theatre, dance and film. When the proposal for this course is cast in final form I can then request formal approval of the minor structure.

Subject: Course Proposals - Dance
Centre for the Arts

Date: 23 Jun 76

Attached please find eight course proposals for dance courses in the Centre for the Arts. Four of these courses are effectively transfers of courses presently existing in the Kinesiology Department. There are four new courses, two of which make substantial use of the resources of the non-credit program.

Together, these courses comprise the entire body of courses specifically in dance we will propose as part of the dance minor that was approved in principle by Senate last February. One additional course, not concerned with dance exclusively but necessary to fill out the dance minor requirements as set forth in Senate paper 76-21, will be forthcoming shortly, together with a request for formal approval of a minor in dance.

FPA. 120 - INTRODUCTION TO CONTEMPORARY DANCE

The content of this course has been taught under the title of Kinesiology 144-3 - Aesthetic Forms of Human Movement, which is being dropped in lieu of this new course. The course title and calendar description have been altered to reflect more accurately the nature of the course as it has evolved during the several years it has been offered in the Kinesiology Department. The content will remain the same since this course has been very successful in achieving general education objectives for students as a single elective while at the same time stimulating some students to continue professional study in dance and providing a basis for more advanced work.

The vector has been increased to allow more time for discussion and showing of related films and video tapes. Practical assignments will be adjusted to take into account the change in vector. (Some group assignments may be completed during class time since the hours will be increased.)

Course Outline:

Each class will include the following:-

Preparation: - a variety of flexibility, strengthening, and relaxation exercises to prepare the body properly to avoid injury and to gain control and facility for dance.

Techniques: - a theme will be presented for the class (developed from basic elements of motion, space, energy, shape, rhythm, articulation of body parts, locomotor patterns) and will be the basis for disciplined movement sequences.

Improvisation:- the technique theme may also be explored through improvisation.

FPA. 120 - Introduction to Contemporary Dance (Cont'd)

Composition: - class projects involving: one individual study occasional group studies emerging from improvisation problems a final group study without a structured problem.

Examples of Themes for Daily Lessons:-

- Kinetics - creating the visual illusion of constant movement.
- Direction and Dimension - moving the body in space.
- Basic Locomotor Steps - seven basic locomotor steps upon which all combinations are based ... combinations and variations.
- Articulation of Body Parts - moving various body parts with changes of rhythm while changing focus of attention from one part to another.
- Elements of Space - using body parts to trace peripheries and sculpting volume.
- Movement Dynamics - qualities of movement (swing, sustained, percussive, etc.)
- Shape and Form - creating shapes - symmetrical and asymmetrical - sculpturally moving from shape to shape.
- Rhythm - meter shifting accents dividing beats syncopation
combinations in rhythm
slow and fast
- Gesture - creating a gesture - abstracting a gesture.

FPA. 120 - Introduction to Contemporary Dance (Cont'd)

Evaluation:

Students will be evaluated on the basis of class participation and the several practical assignments given throughout the semester. These assignments will involve individual and group participation in the form of movement problems.

The final exam will be a group project of this nature.

There will be one short written critique and a term essay.

The practical work is the most important aspect of this course and will carry the most weight in grading.

RATIONALE:

The three courses proposed represent the foundation for the student who wishes to pursue contemporary dance as a performer, choreographer, or teacher. Such courses are also invaluable for those who are concerned with developing an aesthetic understanding of the art. A single outline of principles is presented to encompass the elements used in all craft/studio courses. The movement materials and combinations will become increasingly complex as the student progresses through the courses, but the basic principles of content will still be based upon the anatomical possibilities of the human body in motion, time, and space utilizing various subtleties of energy.

Discipline in the craft will be interspersed with creative aspects so application to the art will be integrated within each course. Again, problems of graduated difficulty in time, space, and energy will be the emphasis.

OUTLINE:

- I. Technique: The art, craft, and science of dance movement vocabulary.
  - A. Alignment and relaxation.
  - B. Flexibility
  - C. Development of strength
  - D. Balance
  - E. Articulation
  - F. Elevation
  - G. Turns
  - H. Enchainements or combinations of movements
    1. locomotor movements
    2. axial movements
    3. effort flow - the visible continuity of the movements.

FPA. 220, 221, and 320 (Cont'd)

Outline (Cont'd)

II. Theory: Definitions and Explorations

- A. Aspects of space
- B. Dynamics of Movement "effort"
- C. Rhythm
- D. Motion

III. Composition

Creative problem-solving moving from highly structured problems dealing with single elements (i.e., body parts, aspects of space, dynamics, rhythm, etc.) toward less structured problems in which the student's expanded movement vocabulary can be applied to more complex imagery.

EVALUATION:

Students will be graded upon:

1. the performance of a series of selected techniques,
2. successful completion of several creative projects which utilize theory introduced in the course.

COURSE OUTLINE

FPA. 424 - DIRECTED STUDY IN DANCE PERFORMANCE

Rationale:

This course gives the advanced student the opportunity to apply knowledge and technical expertise learned in the studio courses to public performance. It is an essential part of a dance program because the sharing of one's creation with an audience provides experience that classroom cannot duplicate. The course is organized as a directed study because individual contributions to a production are all unique and impossible to formalize in a normal course structure.

Outline:

Possible projects submitted for acceptance might include:

1. original choreography for formal or informal presentation,
2. performance in two or three faculty works in concert,
3. major responsibility in the technical aspects of a concert (i.e., production manager, designer, etc.),
4. an inter-media project involving dance, film, theatre, etc., which will result in a performed work,
5. in every instance written work will be required as part of the project.

Evaluation:

Grades will be given on the basis of:

- successful completion of the project culminating in either an informal or formal performance accompanied by a written essay.

References:

To be determined in conjunction with faculty advisor.

COURSE OUTLINE

FPA. 425 - INTENSIVE STUDIES IN DANCE

Rationale:

An important aspect of experience for a student in the performing arts is the opportunity to work directly with an active performing professional artist with a distinctive style and a unique choreographic approach. Such artists are usually available only on a short-term basis, and an intensive experience allows the student to become immersed in a situation approximating a professional working environment. Intensive courses of this nature are frequently accorded credit in universities with well-established dance programs.

Outline:

The content of this course should remain flexible to take into account the various approaches of individual artists.

However, an intensive residency might include the following on a daily M - F basis:-

- Technique class in the style of the artist
- Theory and Improvisation
- Composition
- Repertory Class in which the artist teaches the students his choreography or the choreography of another artist
- Production: public presentation of the student compositions and/or repertory works.

Evaluation:

Students will be supervised by a full-time faculty member who in consultation with the visiting artist will grade the student upon:-

FPA. 425 - Intensive Studies in Dance (Cont'd)

1. Successful completion of all assigned creative projects.
2. Performance of selected techniques.
3. Successful completion of any assignments connected with production.

Subject Credit Hours - FPA. 425

Date 22 Jul 76

In regard to the discussions in SCUS concerning credit hours for our proposed FPA. 425, Professor Garland and I have reconsidered the matter and agree that 5 credit hours would be appropriate. A substantial piece of written work, possibly in the form of a journal, would become a normal part of the requirements for the course. This paper would be examined by a regular member of faculty prior to the assignment of a grade. The calendar entry would not require change from its presently proposed form, but this additional requirement would be reflected in the course outline published prior to any offering of the course.
