PREREQUISITE: 60 hours of credit. EDUC 220 or PSYC 100 and 102 or equivalent

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed for senior students and practicing teachers who wish to acquire psychological knowledge and counselling skills that can be applied in the classroom setting. The focus of the class will be on an eclectic approach to how children's problems develop and are maintained, and steps that can be taken to prevent and resolve problems. Special topics will be considered, such as: classroom meetings, parent-teacher relationships, discrimination, abuse, self-esteem. The emphasis throughout will be on practical use of material covered in the course. Class activities will be varied, (demonstrations, lectures, discussions, group work, library research, skill practice), with a strong accent on student participation.

Dear Ms. Steffin:

I am enclosing information about registration for EDUC 425-4, E2:00, to be taught by Frank Groenewald in the Fall Semester, 1990.

I understand that currently registered students will register for the course in the normal manner, and that new or returning students (ie. S.F.U. students who have not taken a course at Simon Fraser since the summer semester of 1989) will apply through you.

Applications for admission (and readmission) forms are enclosed, as well as blank course selection forms. New or returning students should complete both an application for admission/readmission form and a course selection form on which they have indicated that they wish to register for EDUC 425-4, E2:00.

Please send the completed forms, accompanied by cheques for $243, to me at the address above. New students are required to submit official transcripts from all post-secondary institutions at which they have studied before they will be admitted to the university. If any of their studies took place at institutions outside British Columbia, a $25 document evaluation fee is assessed. The cheque for this evaluation fee should also be attached. Returning students who studied at another institution since they last attended S.F.U. are also required to submit an official transcript from the institution at which they studied. The transcripts should be sent to me.

Thank you for your assistance. Please call me at 291-3787 if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
