

SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY

Education 222-2

EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY LABORATORY
(D1.00)
(Cat. #58433)

Fall Semester, 1993
(September 7 - December 6)
Wednesday
9:30 - 11:20 a.m.
Location: CC5118

Instructor: D.L. Butler
Office: MPX 8645
Telephone: 291-4548

PREREQUISITE OR COREQUISITE: EDUC 220

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this course students will participate in a set of activities designed to explore practical implications of theories in educational psychology and to provide first hand experience with experimental and descriptive research methods.

ASSIGNMENTS

Students will participate in 3-4 structured activities which engage them in evaluating research and/or conducting mini-"experiments" so as to observe educational psychology in practice and gain experience with different research methods (e.g., case studies, observations, experiments). Students will be evaluated primarily on written reports of activities, but also on in-class presentations. Each assignment will be weighted equally. There are no exams in this course.

READINGS

Readings will be drawn from current publications (e.g., journals, books), and will be made available in class, in the CET, and/or on reserve in the library.

NO TEXTBOOK REQUIRED