Ad hoc Committee to Review and Develop
Lifelong Learning Opportunities at SFU

Purpose

- To review lifelong learning activities—including programming and instruction, and the policies that facilitate access to and development of programs—across the University to ensure that they fulfill the principles set out in the University's Values and Commitments statement.
- To propose strategies for developing, enhancing and extending learning opportunities that are lifelong.

Terms of Reference

1. To review existing lifelong learning graduate and undergraduate credit and non-credit activities, instructional delivery mechanisms, related policies and instructional resources.
2. To examine policies and administrative and program models at other universities.
3. To consult widely within Simon Fraser University and the community at large in order to develop strategies to enhance and extend lifelong learning opportunities, including as they may apply to alumni of SFU programs.
4. To prepare a Discussion Paper that identifies lifelong learning models for program and/or organizational growth, responsiveness and change.
5. To submit a Final Report to SCUP by Spring 2002 for discussion and approval in principle, and to forward the Report to Senate for information.
6. The Vice President, Academic will be responsible for implementation.
