DELETION OF A PREREQUISITE

Bus. 307, p. 237 Managerial Economics

Emphasis is upon the relevance of economic models to business decision-making and, in particular, upon the rational analysis of choice alternatives within the firm. Course will include consideration of optimizing techniques and analysis of risk, demand, production and profit in addition to examination of longterm investment decisions and business forecasting.

PREREQUISITES:

Econ 200-3, 205-3
60 credit hours.

Bus. 337, p. 238 Management Information Systems I.

This course is an introduction to the principles of the management, applications and economics of information systems

PREREQUISITES:

Cmpt 103 (Cobol option suggested) or 105; Bus. 221 (formerly Comm221) and Buec 231; (formerly Econ/Comm 231); 60 credit hours.

TO: Cmpt 103 (Cobol option suggested) or 105; Bus. 221 (formerly Comm 221) 60 credit hours

RATIONALE:

Buec 231 (formerly Econ/Comm 231) was, at one time, a requirement for Business Administration majors. This is no longer so, and we see no point in compelling a student to do an extra course when the need that Buec 231 was intended to cover is now met by other courses.
