REPORT ON

EXTENSION CREDIT COURSES

September 1, 1975 - August 31, 1976

This report describes undergraduate course and student enrollee figures for the extension credit courses offered by the Departments and Faculties of the University for the period September 1, 1975 through August 31, 1976.

Nine departments now offer programs of courses during the evenings of the Fall and Spring Semesters which allow part-time evening-only students to complete minor and major requirements for degrees in an orderly fashion over a number of years. Two of these departments also offer evening degree completion programs in Kelowna. Two other departments provide on-campus evening programs which enable students to complete minor requirements. Other departments supplement the degree completion programs through the offering of needed service and elective courses. The Faculty of Education, in addition to its extension credit course offerings on the campus, provides the Professional Development Program at 14 off-campus locations.

1. On-Campus Undergraduate Extension Credit Programs

During the period September 1, 1975 through August 31, 1976, three-hundred thirty-eight undergraduate courses were offered on campus during the evenings of the three semesters and during the days and evenings of the Intersession and Summer Session. The number of courses offered was 6.6% greater than for the same period of 1974-1975 (317 courses). The total number of course enrollees was 11,062, an increase of 17.6% relative to 1974-1975 (9,408 enrollees). The average number of enrollees per course in 1975-1976 was 32.7, compared with 29.7 during 1974-1975.

The number of courses offered and total number of course enrollees for each programming period were as follows:

PROGRAM PERIOD	COURSES	NUMBER OF COURSE ENROLLEE
Fall Semester, 1975	92	2736
Spring Semester, 1976	120	3563

Programs of upper division work leading to the completion of requirements for a B.A. in Psychology or a B. The total number of course enrollees was 134 in 18 different courses over the two semesters. Eight courses were offered in Psychology (four per semester) with a total of 82 course enrollees. Nine courses were offered in Biological Sciences (four during the Fall Semester and five during the Spring Semester) with a total of 44 course enrollees. One elective course (Geography) was offered during the Spring Semester with 8 course enrollees.
