The Global Request is that FASS approves the change of the BA, MA, and PhD degree titles from Women's Studies to Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies effective for the Fall of 2011. There is a subset of four specific recommendations:

1. That the FASS Undergraduate Curriculum Committee approve a change in titles for the BA Major and Minor and Extended Minor in Women's Studies to Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies.
2. That the FASS Undergraduate Curriculum Committee delete the Minor Program in Gender Studies.
3. That the following seven Joint Majors also change their degree titles:
 - a. Criminology and Women's Studies
 - b. English and Women's Studies
 - c. History and Women's Studies
 - d. Humanities and Women's Studies
 - e. Political Science and Women's Studies
 - f. Women's Studies and Psychology
 - g. Sociology and Anthropology and Women's Studies
4. That the FASS Graduate Curriculum Committee approve the change in title for the MA and PhD degrees in Women's Studies to Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies.

Rationale: There are no changes to admission or degree requirements for any of the above. These are not new programs. Consistent with the intent of the name change, Gender and Women's studies undergraduate programs are merged and acronyms will be incrementally changed in SIMS, as agreed with the Assistant Registrar.

Effective Date: We anticipate that there may be some requests from those who entered the graduate program before the Fall of 2011 to graduate with the old degree name, and this should be available on request.

Background: On December 7, 2009, Senate approved the change of the name of Department of Women's Studies to the Department of Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies.

The motion did not explicitly state that the degrees would also change in name although this was the intent.

At the Departmental Meeting of September 22, 2010, the continuing faculty of the Department of GSWS unanimously ratified the motion to change the degree names.

b) Short Title for enrollment/transcript: max. 30 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

Gender Talk

RATIONALE:

While the course was originally titled "Introduction to Women's Issues," the questions raised in the course are framed as an exploration of the cultural and social construction of gender. Women as a social group are understood relationally to men. In all topics studied, the class would look at how men and women were constructed in relation to social expectations about gender, and how those expectations shape the media, social policy, and knowledge. The new title more accurately reflects the course content, and the new description updates the analytical language, reflecting changing discourse in the field. There is no change to the course content and the newly titled course will be taught in exactly the same way as before.

If this course replicates the content of a previously approved course to the extent that students should not receive credit for both courses, this should be noted in the prerequisite.

Local Sex On Global Screen
Professor: Dr. Helen Leung

Prerequisite: 45 units, including 6 units in GSWS.

Course Outline:

This course examines the globalisation of sexual cultures and introduces students to the emergence of queer cinema and screen culture outside of North America and Europe. We will analyze the impact of globalisation on local expressions of sexual and gender identities. In turn, we will also explore the various ways in which these mediated expressions reframe our understanding of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender issues from postcolonial, transcultural, and comparative perspectives.

GSWS 433-4 Gender, Violence and Resistance

Instructor: Dr. Jennifer Marchbank

Prerequisite: 45 units, including 6 units in GSWS. Students who have taken STT GDST 303: Gender, Violence and Resistance may not take this course for further credit.

Course Description

This seminar-based course provides a gendered analysis of violence and resistance to violence. It ranges from a gendered understanding of political states through to individual experiences, institutional situations and militarized aspects. We will address violence and resistance through feminist perspectives and use theories from critical studies of masculinity to come to an interdisciplinary understanding of course themes. We will examine violence and resistance in the home, streets, communities, discourses and during conflict and war. We will explore constructions of gender, women, men, transgender and the interplay of ethnicity and sexuality. In doing so we will question assumptions, such as women are more peaceful, and problematize essentialist paradigms. Course themes include:

- Gender and states of conflict
- Engendering states and nation
- Gender and nationalism
- Inter and intra state conflict
- Interpersonal violence
- Sexual violence
- Peace and resistance

Women's Studies and Psychology Joint Major Program

This inter-departmental program explores relationships between psychology and ~~women's studies~~. Joint major students (or prospective students) are encouraged to consult advisors from both departments.

~~Admission Requirements~~

~~To be admitted, students must obtain a final course grade of C (2.0) or better in each of the following. This requirement applies to courses transferred from other institutions as well as to courses completed at Simon Fraser University.~~

- ~~• PSYC 100 3 Introduction to Psychology I~~
- ~~• PSYC 102 3 Introduction to Psychology II~~
- ~~• PSYC 201 4 Introduction to Research Methods in Psychology~~
- ~~• PSYC 207 3 Introduction to the History of Psychology~~
- ~~• PSYC 210 4 Introduction to Data Analysis in Psychology~~

Course Selection

Students should complete PSYC 100, 102 and 201 as soon as possible to gain better access to upper division PSYC courses. Students who plan to major in psychology should also complete PSYC 210 and 300W as soon as possible.

The department strongly recommends that students do not leave any of these required courses to the end of their degree. If a student is unable to obtain the required grade in these courses, he or she will not be able to graduate with a major in psychology.

To enroll in psychology courses, students are required to meet the prerequisites or special instructions that may be stipulated for each. The listed prerequisites indicate the minimal background expected by instructors. See PSYC courses for details.

The department reserves one hundred per cent of all 300 and 400 division PSYC courses for approved psychology major, minor or honours students. Those who are not approved cannot enroll in these upper division courses until the open enrolment date.

Program Requirements

Students complete a minimum of 120 units, as specified below.

Psychology Requirements

Lower Division Requirements

Students complete two of

- ~~PSYC 221-3 Introduction to Cognitive Psychology~~
- ~~PSYC 241-3 Introduction to Abnormal Psychology~~

Directed Studies Courses

PSYC 493, 494, and 495 are directed studies courses. Enrolment enables an individual or small group to work with a faculty member on a reading or research project of mutual interest. Common reasons for a student requesting such a course are

- to continue a reading or research project begun in a 400 division seminar
- to cover material not included in regular courses

The minimum requirement is a B (3.0) average, at least 60 units and department permission. Directed studies students complete an application form (available at <http://www.psyc.sfu.ca/ugrad>) with the intended instructor.

Letters of Permission

See Courses at Other Institutions/Letters of Permission for information. The department does not normally approve letters of permission for enrolled Simon Fraser University students to complete PSYC 201, 210 and 301 at a different institution. Such permission may be granted for other courses. Enquire of the psychology undergraduate advisor.

Labour Studies 300-level course proposal

LBST 308: The Labour Process: Work and Technological Change

Description:

The processes of technological change and globalization are transforming the way we work. Because work remains a central defining characteristic of our lives in contemporary society, these transformations have profound implications for our relation to class, gender, and nature – in general, for our understanding of who we are. This course explores the transformations of work in the modern era through a critical examination of the labour process. It will trace the historical development of work within a capitalist mode of production and the consequences of this development for workers.

The course is divided into three parts. First, we will identify the unique characteristics of the capitalist labour process as it developed during the early stages of industrialization. As Marx was virtually alone amongst social scientists in his concern with industrial labour processes, we will focus on his analysis of machinery and large-scale industry in Volume 1 of Capital. For Marx, the unique logic and class structure of capitalism created a perpetual transformation of the labour process and a consequent deskilling of work and alienation of workers.

This ‘degradation thesis’ was revisited and updated in the 1970s by Harry Braverman, whose now classic study of Fordism and Taylorism will be our focus in the second part of the course. In particular, we will explore the debates surrounding the changing nature of work, class structure, gender relations, and the de-skilling process that emerged in the wake of Braverman’s seminal work.

A central theme in these debates concerned the degree to which a new form of the labour process arising from post-industrial technologies was superseding Braverman’s analysis. This is a question we will take up in the final part of the course. Here we will explore contemporary labour process transformations in the manufacturing, resource, agricultural, and service sectors in order to identify what has changed – and what hasn’t – in the contemporary world of work. Here we will also examine the high-tech sector, which includes the design and production of information, communication and bio-technology, as part of the contemporary labour process.

Prerequisite: LBST 101 and/or LBST 301 strongly recommended.

Grading:

Critical Article Review (10 pages)	25%
Term Paper (20 pages)	45%
Group Discussions/Presentation	20%
Class Participation	10%

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION: 3 – 4 lines max. (Attach course outline to proposal.) Ethical issues related to public health as they are located in and influenced by a global context. Consideration of several ethical approaches including utilitarianism, deontic ethics, and the capabilities approach, as well as theories of justice. Application of approaches to topics ranging from global markets in human organs to international migration of health workers and pharmaceutical testing in the Developing World.

PREREQUISITE:

60 credit hours of completed course work and PHIL 120W.
PHIL 327 is identical to HSCI 327 and students cannot receive credit for both courses.
Students who have taken either HSCI 319 or HSCI 320 may not take this course for further credit.

COREQUISITE:

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS: If this course replicates the content of a previously approved course to the extent that students should not receive credit for both courses, this should be noted in the prerequisite.

Course(s) to be dropped if this course is approved: (Note: Course Change/Deletion form must be completed.)

RATIONALE FOR INTRODUCTION OF THIS COURSE:

This course already exists as HSCI 320, which is similar in content to HSCI 319 but has PHIL 120W as a prerequisite. When FHS created this new, more philosophically rigorous, course the intent was to make it the cross-listed course in philosophy rather than HSCI 319 which has no philosophy prereqs. We are now correcting this oversight. Since Philosophy already has a PHIL 320, FHS has agreed to renumber the course to HSCI 327. So we are deleting PHIL 319 and creating PHIL 327 to be crosslisted with (the renumbered) HSCI 327.

SCHEDULING AND ENROLMENT INFORMATION:

Indicate effective term/year course would first be offered and planned frequency of offering thereafter:

A version of this course is being offered Spring 2011 as a special topics course. The planned frequency thereafter will be approximately once per 5-6 semesters.

NOTE: There is a two-term wait for implementation of any new course.

Waiver required: Yes: _____ / No: _____

Will this be a required or elective course in the curriculum?

It is part of a disjunctive requirement in FHS. If the proposed Joint Major between Philosophy and FHS goes through, it will be a requirement of that Joint Major.

What is the probable enrolment when offered?

35 students

Which of your present CFL faculty have the expertise to offer this course?

This course is offered primarily by Jeremy Snyder in FHS. Holly Anderson in philosophy also has the expertise to teach the course.

Are there any proposed student fees associated with this course other than tuition fees? (if so, attach mandatory supplementary fee approval form)

No

RESOURCE IMPLICATIONS:

Note: No new course will be approved by Senate until funding has been committed for necessary library materials (S.93-11). Each new course proposal must be accompanied by a library report and, if appropriate, confirmation that funding arrangements have been addressed.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

In a globalizing world, the health and welfare of seemingly disparate populations is increasingly interconnected. In this course, we will examine ethical issues related to public and population health as they are located in and influenced by a global context. We will consider several approaches to assessing inequity in global health, including utilitarianism, deontological ethics, and the capabilities approach, as well as competing theories of global justice. These theories will be applied to a range of topics affecting interconnected global populations. Key topics to be discussed will include global inequality in health resources, global markets in human organs, informed consent in distinct cultural settings, the international migration of health workers, and pharmaceutical testing in the Developing World.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

By the end of this course, students will be able to analyze and critique theories of global justice and accounts of our duties to the global poor. These skills will be assessed through writing assignments and class discussion. Students will also be able to present and defend an account of global justice that will be applied to a topic of their own choosing. This skill will be assessed through a research paper that will develop practical and ethically defensible solutions to an example of an unethical deficiency in global health. Each writing assignment will include a revision process that will help develop skills of clarity, persuasiveness, and responsiveness to opposing viewpoints.

ENERGY POLICY

Course Outline

This outline is also available at <http://www.sfu.ca/politics>

Prerequisite: eight upper division credits in political science or permission of the department.

Instructor Address: AQ 6048, tel: 778-782-3286; e-mail: ahira@sfu.ca

One of the most pressing issues of our time is how to develop alternative energy sources in the face of rising petrol costs and climate change. The course starts with a historical perspective focusing on how we developed our petroleum-based economy. It then moves to a review of how energy policy frameworks operate in economic, political, and regulatory terms. The course is centred around helping students to learn how to write a policy memo, which is a standard document of analysis in the public, private, and non-profit arenas. The policy memo will develop an analysis of the feasibility of implementing an alternative energy source in BC or some other jurisdiction. The policy memo will serve as a well-vetted and reviewed writing sample for students.

Course Organization: There will be one four-hour seminar each week.

Required Text:

Custom courseware package- for purchase at the bookstore

Course Evaluation:

- participation, 10%,
- peer review assignments, worksheets will be given, 20%
- class powerpoint presentation on alternative energy source, 10 minutes, 10%
- Policy memorandum, 60% broken down as:
 - 5% identification of topic and annotated bibliography including data sources (5 pp)
 - 15% statistical analysis and brief context paper on energy trends in the region (10 pp)
 - 10% Policy options section (5 pp)
 - 5% Recommendations section (5 pp)
 - 15% Rough Draft (15 pp)
 - 10% Final Draft (15 pp)

- PHYS 102-3 Physics for the Life Sciences II

Psychology

- PSYC 100-3 Introduction to Psychology I
- PSYC 102-3 Introduction to Psychology II
- PSYC 201W-4 Introduction to Research Methods In Psychology
- PSYC 210-4 Introduction to Data Analysis in Psychology
- PSYC 221-3 Introduction to Cognitive Psychology
- PSYC 280-3 Introduction to Biological Psychology

Upper Division Requirements

Students complete a total of 45 units, including 42 required units as shown below.

Kinesiology

Students complete 21 units, including all of

- KIN 305-3 Human Physiology I
- KIN 306-3 Human Physiology II (Principles of Physiological Regulation)
- KIN 324-3 Principles of Human Anatomy
- KIN 426-3 Neuromuscular Anatomy

and nine additional units selected from the following.

- KIN 336-3 Histology
- KIN 407-3 Human Physiology Laboratory
- KIN 415-3 Neural Control of Movement
- KIN 416-3 Control of Limb Mechanics
- KIN 446-3 Neurological Disorders
- KIN 448-3 Rehabilitation of Movement Control
- KIN 461-3 Physiological Aspects of Aging
- KIN 467-3 Human Motor Control

Psychology

Students complete 21 units, including all of

- PSYC 300W-3 Critical Analysis of Issues in Psychology
- PSYC 381-3 Behavioral Endocrinology
- PSYC 382-3 Cognitive Neuroscience
- PSYC 388-3 Biological Rhythms and Sleep

and nine additional units selected from the following.

- PSYC 303-3 Perception

- PSYC 330-3 Attention
- PSYC 335-3 Sensation
- PSYC 383-3 Psychopharmacology
- PSYC 384-3 Developmental Psychobiology
- PSYC 386-4 Laboratory in Behavioral Neuroscience
- PSYC 387-3 Human Neuropsychology
- PSYC 480-4 Selected Topics in Biological Psychology I
- PSYC 482-4 Selected Topics in Biological Psychology II
- PSYC 491-3 Selected Topics in Psychology
- PSYC 493-3 Directed Studies
- PSYC 494-3 Directed Studies
- PSYC 495-3 Directed Studies

and three upper division elective units.

9. BSc Behavioural Neuroscience Honours

From:

Admission

Before applying for admission, students must have completed a minimum of 60 units in the behavioral neuroscience major program with a minimum 3.00 cumulative grade point average (CGPA).

The admission requirements for the ~~three possible~~ entry routes appear below.

High School Admission

~~Students pursuing this major via the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences will satisfy the faculty's general admission requirements LINK. Students seeking Faculty of Science admission to this major will satisfy the same admission requirements as students seeking admission into the Department of Biomedical Physiology and Kinesiology LINK.~~

Post Secondary Transfer and Internal Transfer Applicants

Post-secondary transfer applicants may apply after at least 18 Simon Fraser University units are completed. Post-secondary transfer and internal transfer applicants are required to achieve a 2.5 cumulative grade point average (CGPA) for admission.

As well, applicants must have completed the following courses with a grade of C or better.

- BISC 101-4 General Biology
- CHEM 121-4 General Chemistry and Laboratory I
- KIN 142-3 Introduction to Kinesiology
- PSYC 100-3 Introduction to Psychology I
- PSYC 102-3 Introduction to Psychology II
- PSYC 201W-4 Introduction to Research Methods in Psychology
- PSYC 210-4 Introduction to Data Analysis in Psychology

and one of

- MATH 151-3 Calculus I
- MATH 154-3 Calculus I for the Biological Sciences

and one of

- PHYS 101-3 Physics for the Life Sciences I
- PHYS 120-3 Mechanics and Modern Physics
- PHYS 140-4 Studio Physics - Mechanics and Modern Physics

Program Requirements

Students complete 132 units, as specified below.

Lower Division Requirements

Students complete all of the following 60 units.

Biology

- BISC 101-4 General Biology
- ~~MBB 221-3 Cellular Biology and Biochemistry~~

Chemistry

- CHEM 121-4 General Chemistry and Laboratory I
- CHEM 122-2 General Chemistry II
- CHEM 281-4 Organic Chemistry I

Kinesiology

- KIN 142-3 Introduction to Kinesiology
- KIN 205-3 Introduction to Human Physiology
- KIN 207-3 Human Motor Systems

Mathematics

- MATH 154-3 Calculus for the Biological Sciences
- MATH 155-3 Calculus II for the Biological Sciences

Physics

- PHYS 102-3 Physics for the Life Sciences II
- ~~PHYS 130-2 Physics for the Life Sciences Laboratory~~

Psychology

- PSYC 100-3 Introduction to Psychology I
- PSYC 102-3 Introduction to Psychology II
- PSYC 201W-4 Introduction to Research Methods In Psychology
- PSYC 210-4 Introduction to Data Analysis in Psychology
- PSYC 221-3 Introduction to Cognitive Psychology
- PSYC 280-3 Introduction to Biological Psychology

Honours Program Application

~~Honours applicants complete an approval form that is available at <http://www.neuroscience.sfu.ca> and submit this, together with a recent unofficial transcript, to the chair of the behavioral neuroscience co-ordinating committee.~~

Upper Division Requirements

Students complete a total of 45 units, including 42 required units as shown below.

COURSE CHANGE/DELETION FORM

Existing Course Number: PSYC x99

Existing Title: Brain, Mind and Society

Please check appropriate revision(s):

Course Number: x Credit Hours: Title:

Description: Prerequisite: Vector:
(Lect/Sem/Tut/Lab)

Course deletion:

FROM:
PSYC ~~x99-3~~

TO:
PSYC 109-3

If Title Change, indicate:

a) Long Title for calendar/schedule: max. 100 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

b) Short Title for enrollment/transcript: max. 30 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

RATIONALE:

The old number, x99, incorrectly infers that this is not a 100 level course (it is numbered like FAN x99 and FAL x99). Changing it to a 100 level number will avoid the confusion regarding level.

If this course replicates the content of a previously approved course to the extent that students should not receive credit for both courses, this should be noted in the prerequisite.

Effective term and year: September 2011 (1117)

Description: ~~Introduces students to~~ classic and contemporary theories, conceptual debates, and empirical research in the area of personality.

TO:

Course number: PSYC 370

Prerequisites: PSYC 201. Students with PSYC 270 may not take PSYC 370 for further credit.

Description: Focuses on classic and contemporary theories, conceptual debates, and empirical research in the area of personality.

If Title Change, indicate:

a) Long Title for calendar/schedule: max. 100 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

b) Short Title for enrollment/transcript: max. 30 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

RATIONALE:

The content of this course is consistent with other 300 level courses.

If this course replicates the content of a previously approved course to the extent that students should not receive credit for both courses, this should be noted in the prerequisite.

Effective term and year: September 2011 (1117)

COURSE CHANGE/DELETION FORM

Existing Course Number: PSYC 325

Existing Title: Memory and Mind

Please check appropriate revision(s):

If Title Change, indicate:

- a) Long Title for calendar/schedule: max. 100 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

- b) Short Title for enrollment/transcript: max. 30 characters, including spaces/punctuation:

RATIONALE:

The content of the course has shifted to include more emphasis on the brain.

If this course replicates the content of a previously approved course to the extent that students should not receive credit for both courses, this should be noted in the prerequisite.

Effective term and year: September 2011 (1117)

COURSE CHANGE/DELETION FORM

FACULTY OF
ARTS AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

MEMO

TO: Jo Hinchliffe, Secretary
Senate Committee on Undergraduate Studies

FROM: Paul Budra, Chair
Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Curriculum Committee

RE: WQB Designations: FASS

DATE: November 22, 2010

On November 18, 2010, the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Curriculum Committee approved Writing designations for the following courses, submitted by the University Curriculum Office:

POL 452	Energy Policy
POL 457	Technology and Innovation Policy

Would you please place these items on the agenda of the next meeting of SCUS.
