PREREQUISITE: EDUC 401/402 or one of EDUC 100, 220, 230, 240.

DESCRIPTION

This course will explore questions regarding classroom management and introduce a variety of models of classroom management. In this process, participants will be encouraged to assess these models while at the same time examining and clarifying their own beliefs regarding classroom management. This investigation coupled with an examination of management strategies will provide a basis for organizing worthwhile and productive learning experiences. Various strategies such as case studies, small group discussions and critical analysis will be used to investigate a variety of issues related to classroom management such as the use of power and authority, implementing cooperative learning and the role of student choice.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION

In this course you are expected to complete reading assignments and course assignments. You will maximize your learning by actively participating in class activities. As this course requires active involvement, 4% will be deducted for each missed class. All assignments are to be submitted by the due date specified, unless arranged with the instructor at least one week in advance. Late submissions that have not been approved in advance will be penalized by a loss of one letter grade (e.g. B to B-) for each day late. All assignments are to be completed for this course only.

COURSE MATERIALS

Handouts and readings will be provided at cost. Please hand in $20.00 at the second class.

PROPOSED EVALUATION

Final grades will be based on the following:

- Interview with an educator/administrator and a written report 30%
- Small group in-class presentation on an issue/approach in classroom management including peer self-evaluation

SPRING SEMESTER 2005 COURSE OUTLINE

EDUC 326-3 (EDUCATION)

CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT AND DISCIPLINE

C100

The main goal of this course is to enable you to design positive classroom experiences where you and your students can engage in meaningful work together.

To assure that you meet this goal:

The course design shows you how to create meaningful and respectful relationships with students.

The course also demonstrates the importance of doing worthy work together: work that is worthy of the people doing it and that can be accomplished successfully in the time frame available.

The course illustrates specific ways you can create a classroom that is a safe and comfortable space in which students and teachers with common goals can work successfully together.

The course introduces you to four models of classroom management, with an emphasis on the constructivist model.

Prerequisites: EDUC 401/402 or one of EDUC 100, 220, 230, 240.
