

COURSE NUMBER: Education 422
COURSE NAME: Learning Disabilities
SEMESTER: Summer, 1975
INSTRUCTOR: John Wissink, Ph.D

Possible Objectives: (Maximum of five)

Student will demonstrate ability to --

1. Write a report concerning an adaption of automatic level remediation.
(maximum of two pages)
 2. Make an oral class report on a test(s) valuable for screening or diagnosing LD.
 3. Make an oral class report on a material(s) valuable for instructing LD children or adults.
 4. Write a report concerning working with parents of LD children.
(Maximum of two pages)
 5. Write a report concerning an article or book that applies to the field of LD. (Maximum of two pages)
 6. Write a report concerning a contributor to the field of LD.
(Maximum of two pages)
 7. Write a report concerning an adaption of a learning material or method.
(Maximum of two pages)
 8. Write a report concerning your interpretation of a new concept(s)
learned from this course. (Maximum of two pages)
-

COURSE NUMBER: Education 422
COURSE NAME: Learning Disabilities
SEMESTER: Summer, 1975
INSTRUCTOR: John Wissink, Ph.D

Possible Objectives: (Maximum of five)

Student will demonstrate ability to --

1. Write a report concerning an adaption of automatic level remediation.
(maximum of two pages)
 2. Make an oral class report on a test(s) valuable for screening or diagnosing LD.
 3. Make an oral class report on a material(s) valuable for instructing LD children or adults.
 4. Write a report concerning working with parents of LD children.
(Maximum of two pages)
 5. Write a report concerning an article or book that applies to the field
of LD. (Maximum of two pages)
 6. Write a report concerning a contributor to the field of LD.
(Maximum of two pages)
 7. Write a report concerning an adaption of a learning material or method.
(Maximum of two pages)
 8. Write a report concerning your interpretation of a new concept(s)
learned from this course. (Maximum of two pages)
-