COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to introduce the student to theories undergirding the work of counsellors and teachers working with children with emotional difficulties. The course will cover theories based on existential, behavioral, dynamic and systemic frameworks.

Students will have an opportunity to examine these perspectives and their relation to counselling strategies and interventions. The course will offer a combination of lectures, seminars and offer an opportunity to apply of these theoretical lenses to case histories drawn from history and literary sources.

Evaluation will be base on student presentation (30%), brief position papers (20%), and a term assignment (50%).
