4. REPORT OF CHAIRMAN

1. Paper S.72-130 - Departmental Review

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by K. Nair,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in Paper S.72-130, procedures for internal and external review of departments."

B. Wilson noted that the Faculty of Science had adopted the proposed procedures for the current external review of its departments, and it seemed appropriate that some kind of uniform procedures be set up through which the University may derive information regarding the merits and performance of academic programs. K. Rieckhoff expressed concern with the editing nature and possible differences of required reports to be provided to Senate and the Board of Governors and that the academic welfare of the area under investigation could be affected by matters which nominally could appear to be a Board responsibility. B. Wilson responded that it would likely be more appropriate to amend the regulations after there has been an opportunity to review the reports that will emanate from the Faculty of Science.

Amendment was moved by R. Kissner, seconded by P. Doherty, to include students in the consultation necessary to produce reports of reviewers, but the amendment was withdrawn when it was agreed to table the motion until such time as the Academic Vice-President prepared an addition to the motion defining "Department." The motion was then tabled until later in the meeting, at which time the following changes were proposed in Paper S.72-130, and accepted:

I. Internal review -

2. Except in the case of new departments for which separate procedures have been established, each departmental chairman - in consultation with faculty, staff, and students - shall be required to produce a biennial report on the department's activities which shall cover, at least, the following points -

S.M. 4/12/72

5. After receiving reports, the Vice-President, Academic, shall provide a detailed report to Senate and the Board of Governors and take such action as, in consultation with the Dean and Department Chairman, he feels to be appropriate.

II. External review -

4. Reviewers will be provided with a statement including
 - a. the calendar entry for the department
 - b. the curricula vitae of all faculty
 - c. a document, prepared by the departmental chairman - in consultation with faculty, staff and students - reviewing items 1.2a, b, and d, above
 - d. other information felt to be appropriate by the department, the Dean or the Vice-President, Academic.
5. External reviewers shall visit the department for a specified period together, but shall prepare individual reports on academic performance of the department. The Dean and internal reviewers shall also submit separate reports.
6. On receiving these reports, the Vice-President, Academic shall submit them, with his comments and recommendations, to the President. After consultation with the Vice-President, Academic, the Dean and the Department Chairman, the President shall provide a detailed report to Senate and the Board of Governors, and take such action as he feels to be appropriate.

Question was called on the paper as adjusted, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

5. REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

1. Senate Nominating Committee

Paper S.72-131 - Elections to Senate and Related Committees

The Chairman stated that no additional nominations to those contained in Paper S.72-131 had been submitted by Senators by the deadline for such nominations, and it was moved by R. Brown, seconded by A. Dawson,

"That the individuals nominated to the Senate Library Committee and the Senate Appeals Board (SAB) be declared elected by acclamation."

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

2. Senate Library Committee

Paper S.72-132 - Changes to Library Loan Policy

Moved by D. Baird, seconded by K. Rieckhoff,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-132, changes to the Library Loan Policy, as follows:

From: 6. Categories of Loan

For the purposes of penalties, there are three categories of loan:

- i) General Collections, Interlibrary Loans and Special Loans
- ii) Reserve Loans
- iii) Audio Visual Equipment

To: 6. Categories of Loan

For the purposes of penalties, there are two categories of Loan:

- i) General Collections, Interlibrary Loans, Reserve and Special Loans
- ii) Audio Visual Equipment

If a person is suspended...levied separately with respect to the two categories.

From: 7: ii) Semester End (concerns General Collection only)
General Collection materials become due.....

to: 7: ii) Semester End
General and Reserve Collection materials become due....."

D. Baird explained that the proposed changes were housekeeping arrangements to combine the General Loans with the Reserve Loans and would permit better control of penalties. It was noted that with the proposed amendment to the policy, penalties incurred with regard to General Collections would prohibit utilization of Reserve Collections, and vice versa.

There was considerable debate on the merits of the proposal, until it was Moved by J. Munro, seconded by K. Rieckhoff,

"That the previous question now be put."

Question was called, and a vote taken.

"That the approved minor programs become effective commencing with the Spring semester 73-1."

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

It was noted that some changes to course numbering are under consideration. In those instances where there are changes in course numbers, etc., affecting minors between January 1973 and the new edition of the calendar effective September 1973, the principles indicated above shall apply.

3. Paper S.72-135 - Department of English Changes in Requirements

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-135, changes in requirements in the Department of English, as follows:

1. Majors in English

Normally a Simon Fraser University English Major shall obtain credit or standing in five lower division English courses as follows:

- (a) Any two of English 101, 102 and 103;
- (b) Both of English 202 and 203 (or 111 or 201 in place of either);
- (c) Any one of English 101, 102, 103, 212, and 225 - or transfer credit for some English course which has no direct equivalent at Simon Fraser University. Composition courses of a purely remedial nature are not accepted for credit and therefore do not satisfy this category.

A student with 15 transfer credits in English will be deemed to have met the department's prerequisites for a major in English provided some of those credits represent studies in both category (a) and category (b) above. Students deficient by not more than 3 credits in the department's prerequisites by reason of inadequate transfer credits or for other reasons may be accepted as English Majors but must make up the deficiency. Such make-up shall normally be attempted at the first opportunity, but the department may permit its deferment to avoid time-table conflicts or for other good cause. Students deficient in more than 3 credits in the department's prerequisites will not be accepted as English Majors until the entire deficiency has been made up.

2. Decrease the present credit values of English 202 and English 203 each from 4 credits to 3."

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

4. Paper S.72-136 - New Undergraduate Course Proposals in English

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-136, new undergraduate course proposals in English, as follows:

S.M. 4/12/72

New Course and Title	Discontinue effective August 31, 1973
English 424-3 - Canadian Literature A	(English 416-3
English 474-2 - Canadian Literature A Seminar	((English 466-2
English 425-3 - Canadian Literature B	As above
English 475-2 - Canadian Literature B Seminar	As above
English 426-3 - Commonwealth Literature	-
English 476-2 - Commonwealth Literature Seminar	- "

J. Munro questioned the statement on the course proposal forms which stated there were no budgetary implications even though the course offerings were tripled, and I. Mugridge explained that, inasmuch as there were sufficient available faculty and teaching assistants would not be utilized, the statement was quite accurate. R. Brown added that he had ascertained that it was not the intention of the Department to offer each course every semester, but more Canadian Literature would be offered over two semesters than had been previously possible. G. Newman joined the meeting and stated that the intention was to offer two Canadian courses of intensive study and one Commonwealth Literature course, and that students would have their choice of two of the three proposals outlined. D. Baird commented that a check of the library resources indicated sufficient material was available to handle the courses.

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

5. Paper S.72-137 - Department of English - Changes in Requirements for Honors

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-137, changes in requirements for Honors in English."

P. Doherty enquired as to the amount of student input in the proposal for changes, and G. Newman responded that to the best of his knowledge there was very strong student support for the concept that Canadian Literature be included amongst courses available for the degree.

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

6. Paper S.72-138 - Department of History Changes in Vectors

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-138, that the vectors for all current upper division courses in History - with the exception of History 489-5, 495-5, 496-3, 497-3, 498-5, 499-18, be changed from 2-3-0 to 0-3-2."

K. Rieckhoff noted that the vector system should reflect accurate information in connection with the work load involved, but the proposal of the History Department did not appear to improve the existing situation. D. Birch agreed that meaningless vectors should be removed.

Amendment was moved by D. Birch, seconded by W. Williams,

"That the vectors for all upper division courses in History be deleted for these courses."

In reply to a question from S. Aronoff, the Vice-President, Academic confirmed that even though an instructor did not supply the additional material represented by the final vector number, the five credit hours would still apply.

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by K. Rieckhoff,

"That the question be referred back to the Senate Committee on Undergraduate Studies since it is part of the charge given to that Committee several months ago."

Question was called on the motion to refer, and a vote taken.

MOTION TO REFER CARRIED

7. Paper S.72-139 - New Undergraduate Course Proposals, DML - Linguistics 130, Russian 140

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-139, new undergraduate course proposals of the Department of Modern Languages, as follows:

New Course and Title	Discontinue
Linguistics 130-3 - Practical Phonetics	Linguistics 420-1 when 130-3 commenced.
Russian 140-3 - Russian Civilization	"

P. Doherty enquired as to the reason for the discontinuation of Linguistics 420-1, and N. Lincoln replied that it was felt by students that a one credit course was an inequity.

K. Rieckhoff expressed concern regarding available faculty to instruct in Russian History, Language, Literature, Drama and Film, Music and Science, and N. Lincoln explained that the intent of the course proposal was to provide a basic background to Russian Literature and that similar courses already exist for French and German. He added that the budget implications imply that certain courses will be offered less frequently, probably every 4th or 5th semester.

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate waive the normal two-semester time lag requirement to permit the immediate offering of Linguistics 130-3 for the Spring Semester 73-1 in January 1973."

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

8. Paper S.72-140 - New Undergraduate Course Proposals, DML

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-140 new undergraduate course proposals in the Department of Modern Languages, as follows:

New Course and Title	Discontinue effective August 31, 1973
French 206-3 - Intermediate French III	French 152-4
French 360-3 - Intermediate French Literature	French 241-3
Latin 100-3 - Latin I	-
Russian 450-3 - Russian Literature from its beginning through the Eighteenth Century	Russian 440-5, 441-5, 442-5
Russian 451-3 - Russian Literature of the first half of the Nineteenth Century	As above
Russian 452-3 - Russian Literature of the second half of the Nineteenth Century	As above
Russian 453-3 - Russian Literature of the Twentieth Century	As above
Russian 454-3 - Seminar on Individual Russian Writers	As above

Discontinue effective
August 31, 1973

Russian 455-3 - Studies in Twentieth Century Writers	As above
Literature 440-3 - Monographic Studies I	-
Literature 441-3 - Monographic Studies II	-	"

A. Dawson asked for information on the need for the courses, and N. Lincoln supplied information to the effect that it is necessary to provide basic courses for students entering from high schools and that the number of required lower level courses had been reduced. Courses in the 4th semester have been placed into the 5th semester and language courses are being taught in the 5th semester. There had been a petition from 31 students for the proposed Latin courses and the English Department has been asked to provide seminars for that language in order that the course may be mounted on an experimental basis. The Russian courses are divided differently in order to provide four 3 hour courses dealing with various centuries and two additional courses dealing with Russian writers. Monographic Studies is proposed at the request of the English Department for their majors. It is also hoped that a joint honors program in European Literature will be available.

R. Brown stated that if it was the intention to offer Latin on an experimental basis it was not appropriate to include it in the calendar as a permanent entry, to which N. Lincoln responded that a minimum enrollment would be specified and if there was insufficient interest the course could be deleted from the calendar.

Amendment was moved by R. Brown, seconded by J. Wheatley,

"That Latin 100-3 be reviewed by the Senate Committee on Undergraduate Studies before it is offered a second time."

R. Brown stated that the amendment would offset proliferation of courses in the calendar. A. MacPherson said there was no element of experiment in Latin and that it was as modern as some other languages. B. Wilson commented that it would be preferable for the Senate Committee on Undergraduate Studies to direct their attention towards courses that have never been taught or not taught in the last three years rather than Latin.

Question was called on the amendment, and a vote taken.

AMENDMENT FAILED

K. Rieckhoff expressed concern regarding the apparent ambition of the proposal, but N. Lincoln stated he had been assured that the integrity of the program was reasonable, and that, in addition to courses shown as being deleted, there are courses which are being deleted and not replaced resulting in a fairly even net balance.

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate waive the normal two semester time lag requirement to permit the offering of Literature 440-3 in the Summer semester 73-2."

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

9. Paper S.72-141 - Changes in Requirements and Courses in DML

Moved by B. Wilson, seconded by N. Lincoln,

"That Senate approve, as set forth in S.72-141, changes to requirements and courses in the Department of Modern Languages, including:

1. Reduction of prerequisites for lower level requirements for Major, Honors, and Minor programs, and changes in courses required for these (French, page 140, German, page 146, Russian, page 150, Spanish, pages 153-154).
2. Reversion from 4 hour to 3 hour credit courses in the introductory 100 language courses in French, German and Russian. The reversion reintroduces courses earlier approved by Senate which were discontinued when the 4 hour proposals were approved. Changes are as follows:

Course Number and Credit	Title	Changed Number and Credit
French 102-4	Introductory French I	French 100-3
French 103-4	Introductory French II	French 101-3
German 102-4	Introductory German I	German 100-3
German 103-4	Introductory German II	German 101-3
Russian 102-3	Introductory Russian I	Russian 100-3
Russian 103-4	Introductory Russian II	Russian 101-3

3. Changes in course descriptions, in vectors, and in prerequisites."

In reply to a question from P. Doherty, N. Lincoln explained that the 4 hour credit system had created problems as the courses built an overload and the change to 3 credits in the lower levels is commensurate with the work required.

Question was called, and a vote taken.

MOTION CARRIED

MOTION CARRIED

4. ACADEMIC PLANNING COMMITTEE

1. Paper S.72-152 - Interim Report of Academic Planning Committee - PSA

It was noted that this paper had been provided in response to directions of Senate at the last meeting, and it was submitted for information.

2. Paper S.72-147 - Institute of Public Policy Analysis

Moved by R. Bradley, seconded by K. Rieckhoff,

"That Senate accept the proposal for an Institute of Public Policy Analysis, as set forth in S.72-147."

R. Bradley, Chairman of the Academic Planning Committee, gave background information on the processes which led to submission of this recommendation. He indicated that representatives of the University in the early Spring had attended a meeting of a provincial advisory council considering education and criminology to discuss the need for a program in criminology, and how and where such a program might be instituted. The Academic Planning Committee, when giving consideration to this matter, came to the conclusion that this topic was but one in a much broader area of public policy. There was belief that a number of questions concerning public policy were not receiving the scholarly attention warranted. These would include items such as federal-provincial relations, certain aspects of foreign policy, N.A.T.O., social policy questions, transport, conservation. There was a feeling that there was a need for research apart from constraints placed by government agencies and similar bodies, and that an Institute within the aura of a university would provide a suitable mechanism. Nothing within the current proposal was an attempt to preempt the possibility of subsequent teaching of a program in any one of the specific areas which might come under Institute study. The Academic Planning Committee had been particularly conscious of the need of the proposed Institute to operate unfettered by any kind of outside control. On this basis he proposed an amendment to the paper which had been distributed.

Amendment moved by R. Bradley, seconded by K. Rieckhoff,

"Delete the last six lines of page 1 and first line and one-half of page 2, and substitute 'Third, the Institute, in pursuing the objectives outlined, will remain independent of government at all levels. It will be funded partly by Simon Fraser University but principally by independent foundations. Only rarely, if ever, will the Institute accept direct government funding. It may do so only with the concurrence of both the Academic Vice-President and the Academic Planning Committee, with subsequent report to Senate. Thus the Institute will be enabled to pursue its work unfettered by any kind of outside control.'"

Amendment to the amendment was moved by P. Doherty, seconded by R. Kissner,

"To delete the words, 'Only rarely, if ever will the Institute accept direct government funding. It may do so only with the concurrence of both the Academic Vice-President and the Academic Planning Committee, with subsequent report to Senate.'"

Discussion was undertaken on the amendment to the amendment and its intent. The Chairman identified that the original paper would permit direct government funding in special circumstances but required the approval of the Academic Vice-President. The amendment would permit direct government funding only rarely and would require approval of the Academic Vice-President and the Academic Planning Committee with subsequent report to Senate. The amendment to the amendment would deny direct government funding.

K. Rieckhoff spoke in opposition to the amendment to the amendment on the grounds that it was not necessary to prohibit all government funding but that appropriate control mechanisms were required to ensure lack of interference. P. Doherty spoke in favor of his motion indicating strong opposition to the principle of government contract research - referring to difficulties which had arisen in the United States. J. Wheatley spoke in opposition to the amendment to the amendment and described the four methods of direct government funding through N.R.C. grants, development grants, research agreement funding and contract research funding - indicating his reservation against contract research funding.

R. Bradley indicated that he had omitted in his amendment a crucial sentence, "It will not undertake contract research," and requested that this be added. There was no opposition to the request.

Moved by H. Weinberg, seconded by A. Emmott,

"That the proposal be considered informally for a period of 15 minutes."

Question was called on the motion to consider the proposal informally, and a vote taken.

P. Copes indicated his concern with the acceptance of colored money and believed that only rarely should money be accepted from government for such operations. He also wished to be able to ensure that money accepted from foundations would not involve vested interests. A. Emmott was of the opinion that so long as there was not interference, funds could be accepted from various bodies but that controls were necessary. D. Jamieson believed that with the controls through the Academic Vice-President and the Academic Planning Committee interference could be prevented. J. Munro enquired whether there had been consultation with faculty who have an interest in the area and with other outside experts. R. Kissner wished to know the extent to which Senate would have control, believing that a great amount of authority was being given to the Academic Vice-President. A. Dawson wished to know the procedures which would be followed in selecting the Assistant Director and the Director, and the relationship they would have to the Resources Officer. K. Strand indicated the original motion was incomplete and that there should be added to it, "and recommend to the Board of Governors that it be established." As there was no objection, this was done. He noted that some of the questions being raised would fall under the consideration of the Board.

H. Weinberg wished to have more clearly established the relationship to the teaching staff, and enquired whether there would be joint appointments. He also wished to know how programs might fit into the research goals and overall teaching programs.

B. Wilson suggested that the Director of such an Institute in the administrative area would have a role akin to a Dean of a Faculty. The role would not be the same in relation to curriculum development. The overall policy of the Institute would fall within the scope of the document presented. If there was concern about the specific kind of research that would be undertaken, then it would be necessary to identify more reference points.

R. Bradley indicated that insofar as consultation with other persons was concerned, the deliberations primarily had been within the confines of the Academic Planning Committee, but he believed individual members had discussed aspects with a number of their colleagues. There had not been deliberate attempt to invite further consultation within the community. Insofar as consultation with bodies outside the University was concerned, a good deal of advice had been taken from such bodies.

Moved by J. Munro, seconded by H. Weinberg,

"That informal discussion continue for a further 10 minutes."

B. Wilson expressed the view that the continuing Institute staff might have joint appointments in departments, but that the reverse would not pertain if curriculum programs were developed. This would fall under the normal procedures, and faculty members in such programs would not have joint appointments to the Institute.

H. Weinberg enquired as to whether there would be an academic program which is part of the Institute, and how it would fit into the structure of the University. R. Brown responded that there was no intention to have an on-going academic program in direct conjunction with the Institute. This would not preclude the arising of programs outside of the Institute's work. He believed it important that there be a small continuing staff of the Institute to prevent the University from being locked into on-going processes, thereby cutting its flexibility. The Chairman noted that if in conjunction with a particular theme it was felt desirable to have particular courses, these would come to Senate through the Division of General Studies and offered on a one-time basis in the usual fashion.

J. Seager referred to the continuing and visiting categories in the organization of the Institute, noting that three persons would be appointed on the assumption that grants would be obtained. R. Brown suggested that in the interest of the University this might call for joint appointments so that if the Institute were not fully successful the individuals would be absorbed into the faculty.

K. Rieckhoff expressed some concern on the specific aspect relating to one year study on a topic. R. Bradley responded that the Academic Planning Committee had deliberated on this point at considerable length with the principle that there should be some limit to the prolongation of the deliberations on a particular area of study. This would not prevent further on-going study by individuals who may have been associated with the Institute, for example, as visitors, who might continue further work on their own but not as a part of the Institute's projects.

Informal discussion was terminated and discussion resumed on the amendment to the amendment.

R. Brown spoke against the motion, believing that the amendment provided necessary flexibility. P. Doherty again expressed his serious concern about government contract funding, and was supported by R. Kissner. The Chairman noted that N.R.C. and similar grants would be indirect government funds rather than direct government funding as they go through a filter screen process.

Vote was undertaken.

Discussion was undertaken on the amendment.

J. Munro asked for clarification on the terms "contract research" and "research agreement," to which J. Wheatley responded, indicating that contract research presents very tight constraints, while research agreements do not have the same degree of constraint. He emphasized that universities in Canada were now reluctant to consider contract research.

B. Wilson indicated that in view of the discussion and a number of points raised, he believed it necessary that there be report to Senate and to the Board of Governors.

Substitute amendment was made by B. Wilson, seconded by J. Seager,

"To substitute for the amendment the following:
'Third, the Institute, in pursuing the objectives outlined, will remain independent of government or other agencies. It will be funded partly by Simon Fraser University but principally from external sources. Acceptance of external funding will require unequivocal demonstration that the Institute may pursue its work unfettered by any kind of outside control. Both the Academic Vice-President and the Academic Planning Committee must approve such acceptance, with subsequent report to Senate and the Board of Governors.'"

S.M. 4/12/72

As there was no objection to the substitution, vote was undertaken on the substituted amendment.

Amendment was moved by R. Kissner, seconded by P. Doherty,

"That Senate accept in principle the proposal for an Institute of Public Policy Analysis and recommend to the Board of Governors its acceptance in principle, and refer Paper S.72-147 to the Academic Planning Committee for clarification and elaboration and presentation at the next meeting of Senate."

R. Kissner believed that the document was still not as clear as it should be and that there had been much rewriting in the course of the discussion. R. Brown believed that there should be referral only if there were clear specific questions presented to the Academic Planning Committee. As a member of that Committee he would not know how to respond to the motion as made. K. Rieckhoff spoke in opposition on the basis that the changes which had been made were small. He was supported by J. Seager. B. Wilson indicated that he considered the role of the Academic Vice-President one of not merely making sure funds are untainted, but that of a watch dog to ensure appropriate balance within the University. P. Copes and H. Weinberg spoke in opposition to the amendment.

Vote was undertaken on the amendment.

A. Dawson indicated that he was in favor of the amended proposal but was concerned about the control of Senate, and wished to know what controls Senate would have. K. Strand identified that both Senate and the Board would have certain shared responsibilities in this area. It was identified that the proposal would be subject to the same kind of analysis that other new proposals are subjected to and evaluated each year during the first periods of operation with report to the appropriate bodies. In response to a question from D. Jamieson, the Chairman indicated that any course to be taught for credit that might arise would have to go through the usual approval process of Senate.

Vote was undertaken on the main motion as amended.
