RATIONALE FOR INTRODUCTION OF THIS COURSE

Econ 220W will provide communication development for students in an economic context. Writing and communication skills among Economics students have been deteriorating for some years despite writing intensive requirements at the lower and at the upper division. The number of students lacking those skills has reached a point where positive learning outcomes among a large share of our students have become difficult to achieve. The purpose of Econ 220W is to enable students to communicate economic reasoning in writing or orally in a clear and concise way, while at the same time facilitating the development of critical thinking skills. Research has shown that learning outcomes for language and communication skills are highest if they are being developed in a contextualized environment. Although the course is not specifically designed with EAL students in mind, it will also help to address the needs of this group. Economics has 14% of all international students at SFU (based on annualized AFTE count, 2012/13) and 49% of all its declared majors are international students. The course content includes the study of basic grammar as well as the writing of summaries, essays, opinions, memorandums and policy briefs that are consistent with standards in Economics. It will also promote oral presentation skills. Students who complete the course will have learned to communicate their arguments clearly, give a presentation, and write with precision.

RATIONALE FOR INTRODUCTION OF THIS COURSE

Key to Indigenous forms of research and inquiry (ie. genealogies, oral story-telling, autobiographies) is an understanding of self in relation to one's community. Yet this understanding includes not just one community but the many communities that we have responsibilities to (family, work, place of origin, current location) including our relationship to ancestors, descendants, and the land upon which we live. This course will explore and hone two separate forms of writing: self-reflective prose as well as standard academic analysis. Students will learn to draw upon the vocabulary of autobiography theory and the seven principles of Indigenous Storywork to examine various forms of life-writing from international contexts.

RATIONALE FOR INTRODUCTION OF THIS COURSE

The Department of Political Science is looking to increase its lower division enrollments and we believe this course will have broad appeal to SFU students. We also think it fits well with SFU's emphasis on being an "engaged" university and one of the Department's research strengths, political behaviour.

FROM / DE David Pajot, Interim Associate Director, OFFA
RE / OBJET Calendar language change, French Cohort Program in Public Administration & Community Services (FCP)

The French Cohort Program administration wishes to modify its calendar language in order to incorporate relevant changes brought forward by the Department of Political Science (SCUS 15-38f). The part concerning the introduction of the new course POL 200 has already been addressed and should appear in the Fall 2016 Calendar. Here, we address the changes related to program declaration.

Political Science now requires all students to have completed the following courses with minimum C grades before they are able to declare their Major/Extended Minor in Political Science: POL 100, POL 200, POL 201, and POL 210. These courses are part of the required coursework for the French Cohort Program. FCP students are directly admitted into the program when admitted to SFU; while preserving some flexibility in terms of the timing of the major/extended minor declaration, we want to introduce the same grade requirement for these courses. We are adding a star followed by the note "Minimum C grade required" in the line for each course mentioned.

This concerns Political Science lower requirements for the French Cohort Program, both streams: Major in Political Science & Extended Minor in French, and Major in French, Extended Minor in Political Science.

Thank you.

Interim Associate Director, OFFA-FASS

Calendar Entry Change French Cohort Program

Rationale for change:

Political Science now requires all students to have completed the following courses with minimum C grades before they are able to declare their Major/Extended Minor in Political Science: POL 100, POL 200, POL 201, and POL 210. These courses are part of the required coursework for the French Cohort Program. FCP students are directly admitted into the program when admitted to SFU; while preserving some flexibility in terms of the timing of the major/extended minor declaration, we want to introduce the same grade requirement for these courses. We are adding a star followed by the note "Minimum C grade required" in the line for each course mentioned; Political Science agrees with formatting the requirement this way. Political Science has also deleted the alternative lower division methods courses to POL 201, so the FCP Calendar entry must change as well.

Effective term and year:

Spring 2017

The following program(s) will be affected by these changes:

Political Science lower requirements for the French Cohort Program, both streams: Major in Political Science & Extended Minor in French, and Major in French, Extended Minor in Political Science.

Calendar Change: "to" and "from" sections are not required. All deletions should be crossed out as follows: ~~sample~~. All additions should be marked by a bold.

Lower Division Requirements

Students complete a total of 36 units, comprised of 21 Political Science (POL) units (12 units of which will be taught in the French language) and 15 French (FREN) units, by completing all of

POL 100 - Introduction to Politics and Government (3) CS*

POL 200 - Investigating Politics: Research Design and Qualitative Methods (3)*

POL 201 - Introductory Quantitative Methods in Political Science (3)**

POL 210 - Introduction to Political Philosophy (3) CS*

POL 221 - Introduction to Canadian Government (3)

POL 222 - Introduction to Canadian Politics (3) CS

RE: Changes to pre-requisites for 300-level HIST courses

History 300 level course description (prerequisite) changes April 2016

With some exceptions, most 300 and 400-level HIST courses currently have the same prerequisites of 45 units, including nine units of lower-division history. We would like to change the prerequisites for 300-level courses that have the nine units of lower-division history requirements to: 45 units, including six units of lower-division history.

Rationale: This change will make it easier for students to register in 300-level courses. This change will also serve to better differentiate 300 from 400-level courses (which will continue to have the standard 9 units of lower-division history requirement).

Prerequisite Change for the following courses: 300; 304; 314; 315; 319; 320; 321; 322; 323; 325; 326; 327; 330W; 332; 334; 335; 336; 338; 339; 344; 345W; 348; 350; 352; 354; 355; 358; 362; 363; 366; 367; 368W; 371; 372; 374W; 376; 377; 388; 390; 391

David Murphy, Chair of the Communication UCC, has requested SA's support of a proposal to change the wording of the Communication Lower Division Program Requirements section (line 3) of the calendar entry to read as follows:

“Students complete a total of 24 units, with a grade of C- or better ...” [underlining added]

Since one of the Communication courses listed (namely, CMNS 260 – Empirical Communications Research Methods) is proposed to shift from 3 credits to 4, Communication has asked to change the above-cited statement to read:

“Students complete a minimum of 24 units, with a grade ...” [underlining added].

SA approves this change and requests that it be adopted and noted in its calendar listing of this joint major program.

Sincerely,

Noel Dyck

RE: French Undergraduate Curriculum Changes

---

At its meeting of March 31, 2016, the Department of French approved the following curricular program change for Spring 2017:

- Calendar language change for the French Language Minor

Please place this proposal on the agenda of the next meeting of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Undergraduate Curriculum Committee.

Calendar Entry Change
Department of French

Rationale for change:

The proposed modification helps identify the program's target audience as students with little or no background in French. Students with more advanced language levels will continue to be encouraged to enroll in other degree programs in the department. Exceptions are contemplated for students who have received prior transfer credit at a level below FREN 210.

Effective term and year:

Spring 2017

The following program(s) will be affected by these changes:

French Language Minor

Calendar Change: "to" and "from" sections are not required. All deletions should be crossed out as follows: ~~sample~~. All additions should be marked by a bold.

~~This program is for students who are enrolled in a degree program (other than French) and who wish to develop an in-depth knowledge of the French language. This program will be available to students with grade 12 French or with equivalent results from the French Placement test.~~

~~This program is not intended for students deemed native speakers or for students who completed grade 12 French Immersion.~~

This program is not intended

- a) for students deemed native speakers
- b) for students who completed grade 12 French Immersion

And, normally, it is not intended for students whose point of entry is FREN 210 or above.

This Minor in French Language cannot be combined with another Minor in French Studies.

Recommendations for the award of this minor will be made by the Department of French and the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences.
