Pédagogie et programmes scolaires du français (application)

Intersession 1992
(May-June)
Wednesday: 4:30pm-8:30pm
Location: MPX 7500B

Professor: Geoff Mills
Tel: 291-5830
Office: MPX 8501

This course is the continuation of Educ 450-4 (even though it is not a prerequisite) and is concerned with the practical application of the theories discussed in that course. It is open to students who have completed Educ 450-4 or who have completed Fren 202-3. The course will be given in French and is limited to 15 students.

Students will have a series of immersion experiences in French whose objectives are:

1. To broaden vocabulary in the school subject areas.
2. To improve French oral and written expression.
3. To acquire first-hand experience in immersion methodology.
4. To develop awareness of and sensitivity towards French culture.

Featured in this course will be oral and written presentations by the students, "field work" in French, immersion classroom observations and a French Immersion weekend with language classes and socio-cultural activities.
